Storm gathering strength

Gulf states bracing for Hurricane Delia's sock

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Winds and rains from tropical storm Delia, nearing hurricane force, swept across the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coasts today, surprising residents who were returning home.

"We're begging people to stay out of the parish," said J. Roland Trosclair, Civil Defense director of Cameron (La.) parish. He said "hundreds of cars" were returning to the coastal area.

Delia stalled during the night and by midmorning still swirled 100 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico. But the National Weather Service said the storm was gathering strength.

Officials said about 95 per cent of the residents of Louisiana coastal communities had fled during the night.

Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were ordered by the weather service for the middle Texas coast eastward to Morgan City, La.

Because of the storm's indecisive movement, the weather service did not predict when its center will cross the coast, but the advisory warned persons in the danger area to be prepared for quick evacuation.

Highest winds near the center of the storm were 65 to 70 miles an hour. But the advisory said Delia showed signs of gaining the 75-mile-an-hour minimum hurricane strength.

Coastal communities in Texas and Louisiana were boarded up. High tides and rain isolated the southeast Texas communities of Sabine Pass and Brazosport.

A sheriff's deputy, checking Sabine Pass to make sure all residents knew about the storm, found Paul Sarver, 61, dead in his yard. He apparently died of a heart attack while hooking up his trailer to move to higher ground.

Delia's rains could be more disastrous than her winds. Five-to 10 inch rains were predicted near and north of the center as Delia approaches the coast. Four-to six-foot tides were predicted from Freeport to Port Arthur, Tex.

The high tides sprayed over seawalls and flooded roads leading out of Sabine Pass on the Louisiana border. The city's population of 850 was evacuated Monday night.

Residents living in beachfront homes in the Freeport area 42 miles due south of Houston were evacuated early today and the bridge across the Intercoastal Canal connecting the beaches to the mainland was closed.

Meanwhile, tropical storm Christine churned northeastward toward an archipelago separating the Atlantic Ocean from the Caribbean. But the storm, which once packed winds of 60 miles an hour, was steadily losing strength and was reclassified today as a tropical depression.

The island of Antigua braced for a full-fledged hurricane even though Christine packed winds of only 35 miles an hour. The Antigua government opened schools and churches as refuge centers and warned residents along the coast to flee their homes. Police leaves were canceled and the 50-man Antigua defense force was mobilized.

But gusts of gale force winds and heavy thundershowers could cause local flooding. These conditions were expected to hit the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico today and tonight.

Weather spokesmen said Christine could intensify again back to tropical storm status.

Factions of rail union will defy Ottawa's order

OTTAWA (UPI) —The only railway union defying the Canadian government's emergency back-to-work law gave in and ordered its workers to return to their jobs today—but union leaders said their members were "bitter" about it.

However, some factions of the holdout union in western Canada vowed to defy not only the government order but the union leadership as well and remain off the job.

Most trains were running normally over much of Canada, but major lines said restoration of full coast-to-coast passenger service would be delayed at least until the end of the week.

The nine-day strike of "nonoperating" railway workers—that is, clerks, ticket sellers and other employes who do not actually run the trains— ended for most of the workers during the weekend with an emergency order decreed by Parliament.

Blistering heat wave still blanketing East

By United Press International

A blistering heat wave hung over the nation's East today for the eighth consecutive day.

Residents of the Midwest, where the heat wave started 11 days ago, were beginning to feel gradual relief from a long stretch of 90-plus temperatures. Thunderstorms and heavy rains cooled the area Monday night and the weatherman said the mercury would start dropping into the higher 80s.

Heavy rains in Baltimore Monday provided temporary relief from the heat, but the storm also touched off a fire when lightning struck storage tanks of Continental Oil, and high winds unroofed at least six homes. However, no injuries were reported.

Temperatures continued to soar Monday in many major cities of the East and Midwest, but thunderstorms also cooled other areas.

In Chicago Monday, temperatures were in the 90s. In New York City readings climbed to 96 and the power drain created by air conditioners caused an electrical crisis in one borough.

New York City's power company, Con Edison, said 1,900 apartment residents in Queens agreed to a "voluntary blackout," and cut off all electricity in their apartments while utility repairmen tried to replace a burned-out cable.

Heat and moisture rising from Pittsburgh's Three Rivers caused 30 spectators to collapse with heat prostration as they watched a Labor Day doubleheader between the Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals.

About 3,000 fans left the ball game because of the heat. None of the stricken fans was hospitalized, a stadium spokesman said.

Ad angers China, halt shipment of Japanese vehicles

TOKYO (UPI) —China ordered the Toyota Motor Sales Co. to halt shipment of 756 cars and trucks to China in a dispute over a Toyota advertisement the Chinese said was favorable to Nationalist China, industry sources said today.

The China Machinery Import-Export Corp., which ordered the vehicles, stopped shipment of the $3.17 million order pending outcome of the dispute.

A high level Chinese economic mission scheduled to visit Japan soon plans to visit the factories of Toyota's rivals, the Nissan and Isuzu Motor Companies, but so far is ignoring Toyota.

The disputed advertisement appeared in early July in the Central Daily News and other papers in Taiwan.

The advertisement referred to Taiwan as the "Republic of China," the name used by Generalissimo Chaing Kai-shek for his regime.

A protest to Toyota by the China Machinery Export-Import Corp. followed shortly. Industry sources said Toyota, Japan's largest auto maker, indicated a willingness to apologize, but that the matter has not yet been settled.

A party of influential Japanese business leaders now in Peking also is trying to settle the argument, the sources said.

The advertisement to which the Chinese objected referred to the recent termination of Toyota's technical tie up with Taiwan's Lio Ho Motor Co. and replacement of the Japanese firm by Ford Motor Co. of the United States.

Southern states cite new UFOs

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — A frightened man dashed into police headquarters Monday night and said a strange "bright-flashing object" had swooped toward his car on a north Georgia highway.

It was the fourth consecutive night of unidentified flying object sightings in Georgia and Tennessee. The Air Force said it was not looking into the reports because the UFO investigation program has been discontinued.

Athens police said the unidentified motorist reported that the object, with "one bright light and four flashing lights," came within 15 feet of the ground before swerving off into the sky. The man, said officers, looked as if he had "really seen something."

Mrs. Nancy Harrison said police at Nashville, Tenn., weren't quite so sympathetic toward her concern about two UFO's that changed from red to blue to green and from "cigar-shaped to a triangle."

"I saw what she was looking at," said Metro officer Robert Hullet of Mrs. Harrison's weekend sighting. "But it looked like a star that wasn't doing anything but flickering."

Besides, he said, "It was really out of our jurisdiction."

Residents in several Florida towns reported seeing varied-colored lights in the sky about two weeks ago. Three elderly women reported something "like a great ball of fire, orange and green, and it seemed to light up the sky."

Other sightings during the Labor Day weekend came from police officers, newsmen, citizens and one military policeman. Descriptions of the objects, seen in several central and south Georgia towns, were similar — blinking, varied-colored lights usually hovering quietly but occasionally showing great bursts of speed.

Chester A. Tatum, a Camilla newspaper publisher, said he photographed a craft Saturday night with a ribbed design and "some sort of center down the middle."

Lt. Col. Richard Davies, an information officer at Warner-Robins Air Force Base, said the reports were the first in "a number of years. The Air Force used to have a program to check up on this type of thing, but they dropped it." He said an investigation probably would not be conducted.

World kissing record broken --seven hours

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) —Two young Bakersfield couples spent Labor Day locked in amorous embrace while 1,000 persons watched.

It was all part of an attempt to set a continuous world kissing record, which the couples allegedly did.

Mike McClaskey, 26, and his wife, Margaret, 25, and newlyweds Mike Stalcup, 22, and his spouse, Pearl, 25, all spent seven hours standing around osculating —kissing that is.

Twelve couples entered the lip-locking competition sponsored by a local radio station but only the two couples eclipsed the old record of six hours, 50 minutes.

Holiday death toll may fall within predicted estimates

By United Press International

The final Labor Day holiday traffic death toll today could fall within a National Safety Council estimate of between 550 and 650.

The summer's last holiday period began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended Monday midnight.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 550 and 650 persons would die in traffic mishaps during the weekend and another 22,000 would suffer disabling injuries. However, the council cautioned that at least 100 lives and thousands of injuries could be saved if every occupant of each car wore safety belts.

A United Press International count at 8 a.m. PDT showed at least 531 persons died in traffic accidents.

A breakdown:

Traffic	531
Drownings	100
Plane	4
Other	56
Total	691

California, where 1,765 persons were arrested by highway patrolmen for drunken driving, reported 43 traffic fatalities. Florida had 32, Illinois 29, Georgia and New York 28.

Nixon's lawyers will appeal Sirica tape order Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's lawyers will file a written appeal in federal court Thursday of Judge John J. Sirica's order that the President hand over tape recordings of some of his Watergate conversations for Sirica's private review.

Gerald W. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said Tuesday that Nixon's lawyers, J. Fred Buzhardt and Charles Alan Wright, had decided on the form the appeal would take, but declined to divulge any details.

"I can't take you beyond that," Warren told reporters. "The White House counsel's office would prefer that I not do that.

While in San Clemente, Calif., last week, Nixon announced that he would seek a review of the Sirica ruling by the Thursday deadline set by the judge.

Russ ask U.S. to close Radio Free Europe stations

MOSCOW (UPI) —The government newspaper Izvestia called on the United States Monday to close down Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, saying their activity is hampering the improvement of relations between the two countries.

Izvestia cited as evidence of U.S. interference in Soviet internal affairs Radio Liberty broadcasts of statements by dissidents such as novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn and nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov.

"This radio station of late has been spreading with particular zeal fabrications of all kinds of moral freaks," Izvestia said.

"Scores of times the Liberty station included in its broadcasts the anti-Soviet utterings of academician Sakharov, Solzhenitsyn and the defector-writer A.M. (Anatoly) Kuznetsov."

Izvestia said the continued operation of the two radio stations is "not only contrary to the invigoration of relations between states with different political systems...but also to the generally accepted practice of international law, which recognizes that every state enjoys the sovereign right in the matter of disseminating mass information in its territory."

Health plan would eliminate medical deductions from income tax returns

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Nixon administration is considering a plan to eliminate medical deductions from income tax returns to offset costs of a national health insurance program, The New York Times reported today.

In an interview with The Times, Stuart H. Altman, Health, Education and Welfare deputy assistant secretary for planning and evaluation, said no final decision has been made. In addition to eliminating medical deductions for individuals, the proposal also calls for treating health insurance premiums paid by employers for employes as taxable income for the employe, Altman said.

The plan would raise an estimated $7.5 billion a year which would at least partially and possibly completely cover the costs of the administration's health insurance program, The Times said.

"National health insurance will not be free—somewhere in the system someone is going to have to pay," The Times quoted Altman is saying.

The Times said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., made available a copy of the draft proposal dated Aug. 22 and prepared for Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of HEW.

Kennedy has been a critic of the original Nixon health plan which was submitted to Congress 28 months ago and has contended the administration has been slow on introducing a new plan.

Kennedy's own health care plan would be financed by employer and employe contributions, much like Social Security, and federal taxes. The administration says it would be too costly.

The administration's new proposal would set a minimum level of coverage for all Americans, The Times said. The old plan had been criticized as "two-tier medicine" with lesser benefits for the poor.

Girl, 3, seriously hurt when struck by her father's car

POMONA — A 3-year-old child was injured seriously Monday afternoon when she was struck while her father was backing the family car out of the driveway at 829 E. Sixth St.

The victim, Elisa Aguilar, suffered head and foot injuries. Her condition today was termed serious at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Candalario R. Aguilar, 26, was leaving to go to the store when he heard "a bump," police reported. He got out and found the child lying in the driveway, bleeding heavily about her face.

The victim's mother told police that Elisa was in the house when her father left out the back door. The little girl must have gone out the front door as her father was leaving, Mrs. Aguilar said.

Indiana prison takeover ends; three guards released unharmed

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) —Rebellious inmates at Indiana State Prison freed three guards unharmed Monday night and prison officials reported shortly afterward the two-day takeover had ended.

The inmates, who held the guards captive in three of five cellblocks at the 24-acre prison site, released the hostages after they were promised complete amnesty from any charges growing out of the two-day takeover.

Robert L. DeBard, executive assistant to Gov. Otis Bowe, said prison officials were in full control of the 1,800-man structure, and prisoners were being fed, identified and returned to the proper cell.

"The prison was secured at 9:30 p.m. EDT," DeBard said, "but the long task remains of identifying prisoners and putting them back into cellblocks... We have been promised complete cooperation by th inmates."

DeBard said Rowe would make a statement today.

A break in the stalemate came after a two-hour negotiating session inside the prison with inmates from cellblock A. Prison warden Russell Lash, Indiana Commissioner of Corrections Robert Heyne, and DeBard were among those attending the session.

Lash told newsmen prison officials had only two choices: "One is to break the door down to the cellhouse and go in with state police and National Guard units and another Attica-type situation," he said.

Instead, Lash said, "We'll wait."

Shortly after the crucial negotiating session, all three guards were led out of cellblocks A, C and E. Two of them, Arthur Jaques, 54, a diabetic and Donald W. Schultz, a widower with five children, stopped to tell newsmen they were in good shape.

"They promised they would not hurt me and they haven't done it," Jaques said. "They've taken good care of me and brought me everything I needed. They did just like they said. They made sure I got my medicine and I feel good."

Prison officials blamed the takeover on a gang fight over a bottle of home-brewed alcohol. A group of at least 200 convicts tried to seize a security post as they returned from chapel Sunday.

But Wayne Webb, an inmate spokesman serving 20 years for robbery, said the rebellion was sparked by a number of things, including poor wages, poor medical services, and isolation procedures. In all, the prisoners issued a list of 25 demands.

"We feel that if these demands are not at least given some attention by the prisoner and correction authorities, we cannot make predictions on actions in the future," Webb said.

The three cellblocks involved housed about 900 of the maximum security institution's prisoners. Officials said they had no idea how many were involved in the takeover or minor destruction of property that occurred.

Several windows were broken, but there were no fires or injuries.

Space cameras scan storms, crops, seas

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 space explorers photographed earth's wonders today, aiming their cameras at tropical storms, volcanos, crops and oceans.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, catching up on their earth surveys, had two picture-taking sweeps covering 11,400 miles over South America, northern Africa, southern Europe, Central America, Florida, the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The pilots were asked to photograph storm Christine which swept over the Virgin Islands and to televise tropical storm Delia which was threatening the Texas Gulf Coast.

Flight controllers, meanwhile, braced themselves in case Delia blew through the Space Center.

The space fliers beamed back a live television show of Delia Monday as it moved toward the Texas-Louisiana coast, reporting the storm's eye was apparently obscured from their view by high clouds.

Flight Director Donald R. Puddy said a team of 26 flight officials had been ready to fly to the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., if the raging storm knocked out the capability of communicating with the spaceship from the Johnson Space Center.

The plan was scrubbed because officials late Monday decided the situation was not serious enough to warrant the action.

The flight director praised Bean, Garriott and Lousma for their "excellent spirit" as they plugged away at scientific work, and especially for their response to watching an unexpectedly active sun.

"Their cooperation has been tremendous," he said. "They've shown an excellent spirit throughout. Their morale is still very high and they would stay there for a long time if that was feasible."

Puddy added that solar scientists had been "extremely fortunate" to have such an active sun during the Skylab flights, especially since forecasts had been for a quiet period. He said four flares, or explosions of energy off the solar surface, had been seen the last two days.

"They have done a tremendous job of taking advantage of the capabilities in solar viewing you have from space."

The crew Monday shot space pictures with their array of cameras of the unusual ocean shelf surrounding Elba Island, Italy, marine resources in the Atlantic Ocean, crops in Brazil and minerals in Argentina.

Colby sworn in as CIA director; Nixon watches

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With President Nixon looking on, William E. Colby was sworn in today as new director of the Central Intelligence Agency which has come under fire during the Watergate affair.

Colby, 53, former CIA chief of the pacification program in Vietnam, was administered the oath by U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. in Nixon's Oval Office.

In addition to the President, an impressive lineup of guests joined Colby's family at the swearing in. They included Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy director of the CIA.

Walters was summoned as a witness at the Senate Watergate hearings last month to testify on his dealings with White House officials and the Justice Department shortly after the break-in of Democratic national headquarters on June 17, 1972.

There have been charges that there was an administration effort to use the CIA to impede the FBI's investigation of leads in the case.

A newly published Louis Harris poll, conducted Aug. 1819, reported that a plurality of 46 per cent to 33 per cent of households interviewed felt the CIA was used to its detriment in a cover-up of the Watergate affair.

Auto workers and Chrysler far apart as deadline nears

DETROIT (UPI) — A top Chrysler Corp. negotiator said today the United Auto Workers union still has not spelled out completely its priorities for a new contract, just 11 days away from a possible strike.

Speaking to newsmen before bargaining resumed at Chrysler's world headquarters, industrial relations director William Bavinger said: "We will certainly have to know soon what those priorities are."

There appeared little chance that the UAW and Chrysler would announce either an agreement or a strike before the deadline of 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14. If no agreement is reached, 127,500 U.S. and Canadian autoworkers may walk off the job.

"As we go along we'll have to know what the union has in mind for a settlement," Bavinger said, adding that bargainers probably will begin evening sessions this week. He said negotiations are about at the same place as they were in 1970 when General Motors was the strike target.

Bavinger said there were too many union demands still on the table. He said there were four that dealt with bereavement pay alone and 19 with holiday pay. He said these will have to be narrowed down.

On a key union demand for an end to compulsory overtime, Bavinger said "they keep throwing out things and we keep looking." But, he said, it would be impractical to use a "reserve" labor pool of retired auto workers to fill in for employes who don't want overtime, as the union has suggested.

Burning freighter given up as loss; deadly cargo not aboard

PHOENIX, La. (UPI) —Coast Guard firefighting crews gave up as a loss early today the burning freighter Key Largo after discovering a poisonous chemical had never been loaded.

The hulk of the freighter burned through the night. A spokesman for the Coast Guard station in New Orleans said the ship's "superstructure has melted and burned and there are breaches in the hull."

The Coast Guard cutter Achushnet remained alongside the Key Largo through the night.

The fire broke out Sunday and the ship's crew said they had it under control. But late Sunday the fire worsened and the crew ran the ship aground south of New Orleans at the mouth of the Mississippi River and abandoned it.

Coast Guard spokesmen said the ship contained tons of tetraethyl lead that, when burned, produced a fume that could eat human flesh. The ship also contained calcium carbide, which the Coast Guard said exploded when mixed with water.

Officials ordered the evacuation of small towns within a mile of the freighter, but the 500 residents returned to their homes late Monday when the Coast Guard said the poisonous chemical was not aboard the boat and the calcium carbide was not as explosive as they had thought.

"We feel at least that the urgency of it (the fire situation) has changed," said Bill Rice, Coast Guard spokesman.

The tetraethyl lead was left sitting in barrels on a wharf in New Orleans. The ship's crew thought it was aboard and told the Coast Guard it was. The truth was revealed by Harry Henners of Ethyl Corp., owners of the chemical.

The explosion threat from the calcium carbide existed, but was not too serious, a spokesman said.

Busy week ahead for President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, anxious to "get thing moving" with Congress, lined up a busy week today including a conference with the GOP congressional leadership, a cabinet meeting and the installation of William E. Colby as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Colby was to be formally sworn in (at 11 a.m. EDT) in the White House Oval Office to head the nation's top international security agency at a time when the agency has been harmed by disclosures stemming from the Watergate scandal.

Colby, who was deputy director of the agency and formerly headed the pacification program in South Vietnam during the Indochina war, was named to head the CIA May 10.

He succeeded James R. Schlesinger, who became defense secretary during the staff shakeup of key administration aides caught in the wake of the Watergate.

The White House announced that Schlesinger, Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were to attend the ceremony with the President.

The President returned to the White House Monday night after spending Labor Day at his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat with the First Family.

Shortly before he returned to Washington, the White House announced that he would meet with his cabinet and the congressional leadership later in the week, probably Thursday or Friday.

Program stalled

"The President wants to discuss ways of getting things moving" in Congress, an aide said. Nixon's legislative program has been badly stalled this year due, in large part, to the Watergate. Congress returns from its summer recess Wednesday with the bulk of the money bills needed to run the government still to be passed.

The President also must decide whether to veto a minimum wage bill that Congress passed before it adjourned for its recess.

'Watergate West' grand jury to get new evidence today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Armed with documents from the Senate Watergate committee, the district attorney's office introduces new evidence today to the "Watergate West" grand jury, which reconvenes after a two-month recess.

The district attorney's office indicated the grand jury— recessed last July 5 so further information could be gathered— will be asked to bring in indictments of burglary, conspiracy, breaking and entering and trespassing against a White House "plumber's squad" that burglarized Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office on Labor Day, 1971.

"We will introduce to the grand jury certain documents and transcripts we have received from the Senate Watergate committee during the past two months," Richard Hecht, deputy district attorney said.

"We will then indicate to the grand jury what pleadings may be appropriate in view of the evidence and leave the jury to deliberate," he said.

Two members of the team which broke into the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding were E. Howard Hunt Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy, who were convicted of the Watergate bugging.

Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman told the Senate Watergate committee that President Nixon believed the break-in was proper and necessary to protect national security. Nixon learned of the break-in after it happened.

Ehrlichman, one of 29 witnesses to testify before the grand jury, said "the plumbers" were put on the Pentagon Papers case in the summer of 1971 after then Attorney General John N. Mitchell warned Nixon that some people involved in stealing secret documents had "previous ties to domestic communist activities."

Charges against Ellsberg, a former Pentagon employe accused of stealing the top secret Pentagon Papers, were dropped after disclosure of the psychiatrist's office break-in.

The last major witness called to testify before the grand jury in July was former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh, who took the Fifth Amendment.

Prior to his court-ordered appearance, Krogh, 33, in a May 9 letter of resignation to Nixon, said he would accept "full responsibility" for the burglary of Ellsberg's psychatrist's office.

Young guru given ulcer treatment

DENVER (UPI) — Guru Maharaj was released Sunday from a hospital where he was treated for an ulcer. A spokesman said that because the spiritual leader of 6 million devotees "hasn't led the life of a normal 15-year-old," he is postponing his current tour.

The guru is convalescing in the $80,000 home purchased by his religious followers for the guru to stay in during his world travels.

Steelworker falls 6 floors --and survives

MIAMI (UPI)—On Aug. 16, Paul Wilson, 22, fell six floors in what was described by co-workers as a swan dive position and landed face down on hard dirt.

Today, he is still alive and recovering enough to talk about it.

"It seems like falling six stories would be a matter of a few seconds, that you'd have time to think of something," he said. "I wish I could describe the fall, but I actually do not remember it at all."

Wilson was working at the end of a sheer concrete wall on the sixth floor of an unfinished concrete building when his hard hat fell off. He reached out to grab it and became airborne.

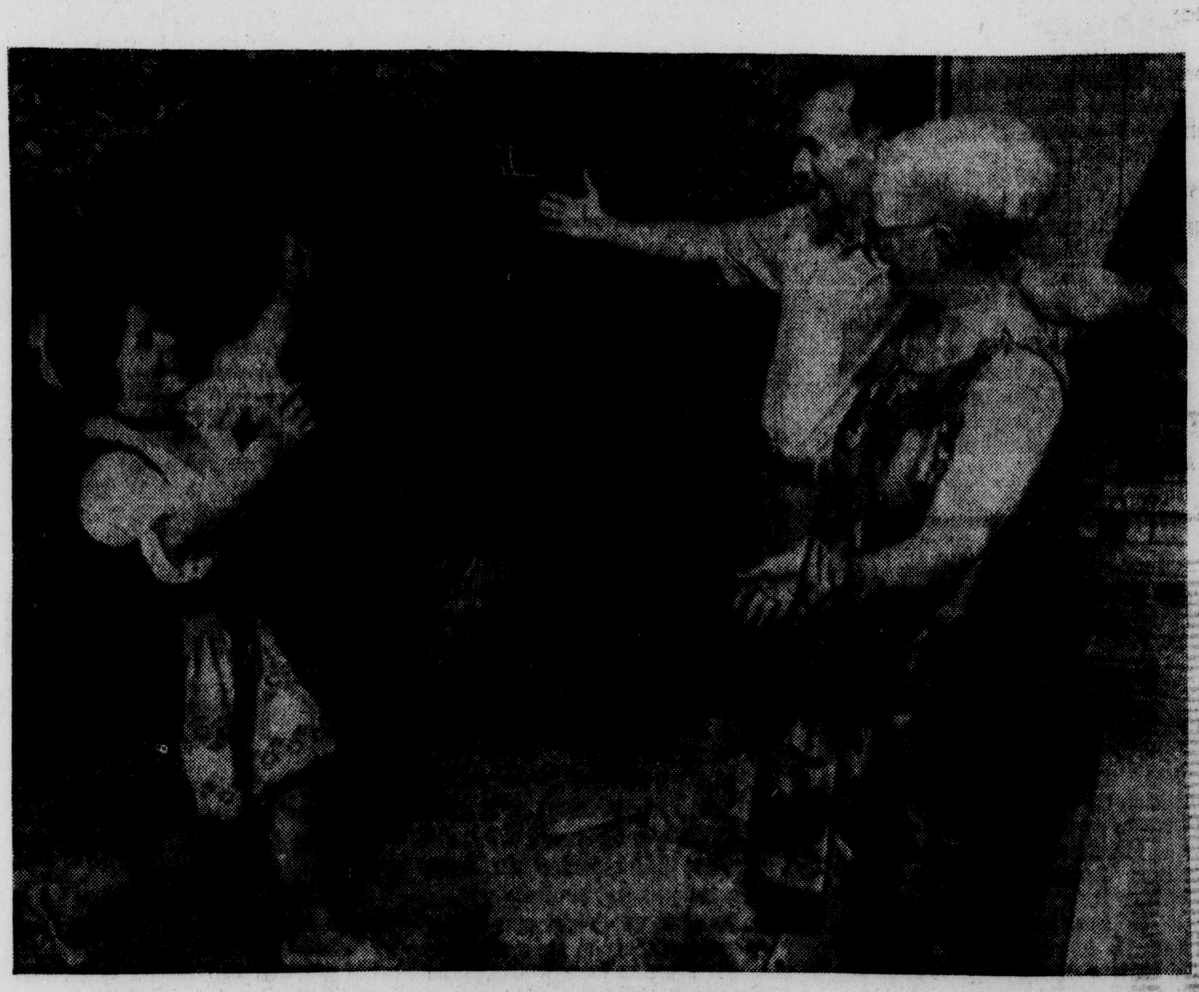

His jaw, nose and cheek were smashed, but he is expected to recover fully and the staff at the hospital where he spent a week calls him "our miracle case." Wilson was uninjured from the neck down and is at a loss to explain why.

His father, Ernest L. Wilson, has been to the construction site several times to try to figure out how his son fell. He said the left side of his face apparently hit a shallow gully and the rest of his body landed on higher ground.

"I bounced a few times," says the younger Wilson. "The line of my body must have been such that I absorbed the shock."

Wilson said steelworkers are very conscious of the hazards of working on tall buildings.

"Steelworkers are very conscious of falling," he said. "They have a term they call bellying out. It's just taking it (a fall) on your belly. About eight or nine days after I woke up, I realized by looking at the scratches on my chest and stomach that's what I must have done."

OIA due regional air control center

ONTARIO — A regional radar air-control center will be built at the Ontario International Airport.

When it becomes operational, the Ontario control system will provide radar air traffic control service to 17 airports in a 2,000 square mile area. This includes Ontario International Airport, March and Norton Air Force bases, and Chino and El Monte airports.

The facility, costing $600,000, will replace the U.S. Air Force and Federal Aviation Administration radar approach control center located at March Air Force Base.

The Jack H. Brown Construction Co. of Upland will begin work next month on a 2½-acre site at the northwest corner of Archibald Avenue and Lowell Street on airport property. This will be leased cost-free to the FAA.

The center will include a 13,300-square foot, single-story building, a generator building and adjacent parking lot to accomomdate the 35 air traffic controllers, 20 technicians, and other staff members. Completion is set for January 1975.

Housed in these buildings will be a new air traffic control computer system known as ARTS III (automated terminal radar system). The system provides alphanumeric information on the controller's radar display giving aircraft identity, speed and altitude from properly equipped aircraft. Most airline and military aircraft are so equipped.

The ARTS III system benefits pilots, air traffic controllers and air travelers since it simplifies radar contact with aircraft, minimizes controller coordination and reduces pilot-controller communications.

2 arrested at Ontario trailer yard

ONTARIO — Two men were booked in the West End jail this mornig after they were seen throwing three rolls of carpet pads over a fence at a mobile-home storage yard at 1366 E. Franics St. Monday night.

Henry Lauer, 32, of Riverside and Theodore Charles Wilbrecht, 28, of Bloomington were taken into custody about 10 a.m. by Ontario police about a block from the mobile home storage yard.

Police said that the men were seen jumping the fence at the storage yard by two Southern California Edison Co. linemen. The witnesses said they saw the two men return to the fence and throw the carpet pads over the fence. The linemen, suspecting a burglary, called police.

Lauer and Wilbrect were booked in jail for investigation of receiving stolen property.

Five hurt when van rolls over

Holiday accidents in area injure 11

Eleven persons were injured, none seriously, in four accidents on Pomona Valley Streets and highways over the Labor Day weekend.

Five people were hurt slightly when a tire blew on their van and the vehicle rolled over in the center divider of the Pomona Freeway west of Towne Avenue Saturday night.

Treated at the Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released were the driver, Edmundo N. Rosales, 21, of Los Angeles, and his four passengers — Jesus Hurtado, 48; Pedro Valdovino, 23; Alfredo Garcia, 19, and Guadalupe Barrigan, 40, all of Mexico.

Three members of a Chino family escaped with minor injuries when their car collided with another at Central Avenue and Phillips Boulevard, Chino, Sunday morning.

The drivers were Victor S. Garcia, 27, of 530 Acacia St., Ontario, and John R. Ferguson, 26, of 13358 Yorba St., Chino. Ferguson, Karen Ferguson, 23, and Kerry Ferguson, 2, were treated at Chino General Hospital and relased.

Brude Martin, 23, of San Gabriel was injured when he overshot the Interstate 210 off-ramp to the San Bernardino Freeway in Pomona Sunday morning and his small foreign car rolled over. He and his passenger, Kenneth W. Chalfant, 23, of South Gate, were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

David E. Nolte, 23, of 10217 Kimberly Ave., Montclair, suffered minor injuries when his car struck a wall at the Archibald Avenue on -ramp to the San Bernardino Freeway, Ontario area, early Saturday morning.

Valley briefs

Two hurt in prison attack

CHINO — Chino police this morning were investigating the Sunday morning knife attack on two California Institution for Men inmates by a group of other inmates in the exercise yard of the Southern Reception Guidance Center's Palm Hall.

Inmates R. M. Sheldon and Ferguson Seif both were listed in satisfactory condition at County-USC Mediacl Center in Los Angeles. Sheldon suffered knife wounds of the chest and Seif suffered a fractured skull.

Chino Police Detective Robert Caro said that six inmates have been questioned in the stabbing incident. Caro said the incident may have stemmed from a racial incident between Negroes and Caucasians at the prison.

Pankey wins Brackett race

LA VERNE — Jack Pankey, flying a Piper Comanche, finished first in the 20th annual Jim Long Memorial Trophy Race Sunday from Brackett Field here to Columbia, Calif.

Gini Richardson was second and Rich Polich, third.

The race is sponsored annually by the Pomona Valley Pilots Association.

Upland baby sitter reported raped

UPLAND — Police this morning are investigating a report that a 13-year-old baby sitter was threatened and raped by a youth early Sunday morning in the 600 block of W. Ninth Street.

Police said the girl was baby sitting when the youth entered a home and, after threatening her, carried her outside to the back yard where he raped her.

The youth who allegedly raped the girl was described as a Caucasian, 14 to 15, 5 feet 3, weighing 105 to 110 pounds. He was wearing baggie gray pants and a black T-shirt, police said.

Ganesha slide mishap hurts boy

POMONA — A nine-year-old boy suffered head and neck injuries Monday afternoon when he fell from a slide at Ganesha Park.

The victim, Aaron F. Solis, a Mexican national, was sliding down the slide when he met someone climbing up the chute, witnesses said. When Aaron leaned too far to avoid a collision, he fell about eight feet to the ground.

Police reported that the little boy is visiting here at 138 W. Olive St. His condition today was termed serious at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Chinoan, hurt in crash, still on critical list

MONTCLAIR — A 19 year-old Chino woman seriously injured when her car was struck broadside by a motorcycle Friday evening at Mountain Avenue and Mission Boulevard remained in critical condition at Doctors Hospital of Montclair this morning.

Linda Karen Reenders of 6169 Garfield, Ave., Chino, suffered multiple injuries in the accident that killed motorcyclist Daniel J. Scarsella, 20, of 206 W. I St., Ontario.

Police said Scarsella's motorcycle struck Miss Reenders' car while he was trying to evade pursuing police officers. Police said the motorcycle was traveling more than 100 miles per hour when it collided with car. The motorcyle struck in the door of the diver's side of the vehicle on impact.

The moose, a member of the deer family, is the largest North American game animal.

Pomona boy booked after knife attack

POMONA — A 15-year old boy was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder Monday morning in connection with the stabbing of Paul Beltran, 21, at 904 E. Grand Ave.

Beltran was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital for several knife wounds, including one in his back. He was released.

Police said the stabbing occurred during an argument inside Apartment B at the Grand Avenue address. The suspect was arrested on the rooftop of the building after hitting a police radio car with rocks, officers said. While making the arrest, Officer James Holmes was hit and kicked several times, officers said.

Uplander hurt repairing truck

UPLAND — A 47-year-old Upland man was injured Monday night when a jack slipped and pinned him between the bed and the frame of a two-ton truck he was repairing at 1375 Alta Ave.

James Alexander Wade of the Alta Avenue address was reported in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital with a broken leg and other injuries. Police said neighbors reported the accident occurred about 7:30 p.m.

Police arrived at the home and with the help of Wade's neighbor's managed to jack up the truck and free Wade. Wade was given emergency first aid by the Upland Fire Department and rushed by ambulance to the Upland hospital.

Investigation continues into fatal car crash

CHINO — Highway Patrol officers said today they are continuing investigation of a head-on collision Sunday that claimed the life of a Chino man and injured seven others.

Thomas Thorkildsen, 29, of 12803 Seventh St., Chino, died in the accident that occurred near Crystal Lake in the San Gabriel Mountains.

Mrs. Ginger Caligiuri of the same Chino address and a passenger in Thorkildsen's vehicle is reported in fair condition today at the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center. Her three children were also in the jeep. Sharon, 6, is in the intensive care unit at Glendora Community Hospital and Amy, 9, is reported in satisfactory condition there. Another child, Mose, 8, was treated at the hospital and released.

Agustin Aquilar, 39, of Los Angeles was reportedly driving a car which jumped the divider line and hit Thorkildsen's jeep head on. He was treated for a broken left leg.

Other passengers of Aquilar's car included Saul Ocompo of Los Angeles who is in critical condition today at the medical center. Jesus Ocompo and Jose Garcia, also of Los Angeles, were treated and released at the hospital.

Funeral arrangements are pending for Thorkildsen at the Baltz-Bergeron Mortuary in Costa Mesa.

Downers Grove picnic slated

SUN VALLEY Former residents of Downers Grove, Ill., now living in Southern California, will meet Sept. 23, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the home of Joseph C. Sykora, 7428 Satsuma Ave., for their annual picnic.

Those who attend are asked to bring basket lunches. Soft drinks will be served.

A birthday cake for Patty Cake

NEW YORK (UPI)) —Patty Cake threw her banana birthday cake at spectators Monday as the gorilla celebrated her first year of a hectic life.

Patty Cake, who has suffered a broken arm and been the object of a custody case, delighted hundreds of children as she hurled crumbs of cake at them and reporters, smeared other cake on the floor and her hair and even managed to get some in her mouth.

Mickey Jackson, 7, sang to her: "Happy birthday, dear Patty Cake, happy birthday to you."

Zookeeper Luis Cerna said "I have six kids and Patty Cake is just like them. Sometimes she is good and sometimes she throws things and talks back."

Patty Cake was born at the Central Park Zoo on Labor Day, 1972, one of the few gorillas born in captivity to survive. Last March, her father, Kongo, broke her arm while trying to yank her away from her mother, Lulu. She was taken to the Bronx Zoo for treatment.

The Bronx Zoo claimed that the Central Park Zoo could not adequately care for a young gorilla and the custody fight ensued. An arbitrator finally ruled that Patty Cake should be returned to Central Park and her own parents.

Glider pilot seriously hurt

LAKE ELSINORE (UPI) —A 20-year-old Airman from March Air Force Base was seriously injured Monday when the glider he was piloting crashed into a row of power lines.

Riverside County sheriff's deputies said Airman Michael Kralman, 20, had glided about a mile from the Santa Ana foothills when he lost control and hit the wires at the southwest edge of Lake Elsinore.

Kralman was taken to the base hospital where he was reported suffering from internal injuries and first and second degree burns.

Giant No. Calif. blaze contained

CLEARLAKE OAKS, Calif. (UPI) —An army of fire fighters and fleet of air tankers Monday night stopped the spread of a blaze that charred more than 22,000 acres of valuable watershed in this resort area.

The National Park Service declared containment when crews of firemen trained in close-range fire techniques succeeded in establishing lines in the Chocolate Peak wilderness 10 miles north of here. Full control was expected late today.

Forest rangers said they believed the blaze was set deliberately. It started Saturday and gusty winds quickly spread the flames out of control. Hundreds of persons were evacuated from cabins and mobil homes. Only six buildings were destroyed.

This was the worst fire in this Northern California mountainous region in years. Forest rangers said 10,000 of the charred acres were in the rugged Mendocino National Forest.

A total of 1,250 firemen were used to battle the flames. The crews trained for close-range work were called to handle the "hot spots" which troubled fire fighters on Monday. A dozen aircraft were used to drop fire retardants on the flames.

An emergency rehabilitation team was called in to study the watershed damage and draw up proposals for forestry restoration, the National Park Service said. A spokesman added that three million board feet of timber was ruined.

There were no injuries to vacationers and Labor Day holiday weekend visitors in the area. But a few firemen suffered minor injuries.

The blaze charred heavy brush and pine trees. Clear Lake is California's largest inland lake and is about 100 miles north of San Francisco.

Beauties mostly mum on Watergate affair

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —Many of the contestants in the Miss America Pageant shy away from commenting on controversial issues such as the Watergate affair, but at least a few say the investigation has opened the nation's eyes.

"I believe the American people have become lax in trying to find out what their leaders are doing," said 21-year-old Jane Rice, Miss Alabama. "I think they tend to take things for granted, and Watergate has made everyone wake up to how things really can be in national government."

Miss Rice was one of the contestants who openly offered her views before the pageant. Other contestants, who have only been allowed to speak out on controversial issues in recent years, declined to comment.

The contestants in the pageant all were in Atlantic City by Monday for the competition, which ends Saturday night with the crowning of the new Miss America.

Over half of those interviewed said they still believed in President Nixon and felt he had no direct involvement in the scandal or the subsequent cover up.

Jackie LaGuardia, 19, of Milford, Del., said the uncovering of the scandal reenforced her faith in democracy, but she said she believed the investigation was poorly handled.

"I am sorry to see that the Watergate committee hearings have become a tourist trap with a carnival atmosphere," Miss Delaware said.

"Political candidates are going to be forced to make a point of their honesty and legitimacy," said hazel-eyed Jinny Adams, Miss Alaska. "I believe Watergate has forced this," said the 21-year-old singer, whose father works for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Miss New Jersey, Suzanne Plummer, quoted John W. Dean III, former counsel to the President, as saying Watergate was "one of America's worst tragedies."

Death penalty issue faces legislators in final days

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fresh from a Labor Day recess, the legislature reconvened today with hopes of finishing its 1973 session in the next two weeks.

With adjournment scheduled for Sept. 14, the hottest issue still unresolved is the reinstatement of capital punishment in California.

Other topics still alive include conflict-of-interest legislation, the sale of prophylactics in vending machines, advertising of prescription drug prices and no fault car insurance.

The Assembly Thursday is expected to take action paving the way for the return of the death penalty despite the personal opposition of Speaker Bob Moretti.

Assembly Republicans plan to ask their colleagues to remove amendments from the bill (SB450) by Sen. George Deukmejian which were inserted by the Criminal Justice Committee and to restore the measure to almost its original form.

The amendments wipe out the bill's death penalty provisions and substitute them with life imprisonment without parole. Moretti has acknowledged that Republicans will probably succeed and win Assembly passage of the capital punishment bill.

If signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan this year, the measure would reinstate the supreme penalty beginning Jan. 1.

Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, said the final version of his bill probably will not cover four crimes originally included in the measure —hijacking, the killing of an inmate by a fellow prisoner, torture slaying and arson-caused death.

It would still apply to more than a dozen other crimes, including mass murders, the killing of a peace officer and hired assassinations.

Another prominent issue in the legislature is how the state should implement the new federal welfare act (HR1). If legislature fails to pass some kind of a special implementing bill this year, 500,000 welfare recipients in California would have their aid slashed in half Jan. 1.

Assembly Democrats and the Reagan administration are deadlocked on the question and accuse each other of failing to compromise.

The administration contends an Assembly-passed bill by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, would bankrupt the state by granting huge welfare hikes. Burton retorts that the administration's proposal would not meet the needs of the poor.

Under the new two-year legislature, bills which are not passed this year may be considered again in 1974 without starting from scratch as they did in the old one-year sessions.

For example, various no-fault automobile insurance bills have been logjammed in the Senate Judiciary Committee for several months after clearing the Assembly. If the issue isn't resolved by the end of next week—as expected—the bills will still be in the committee when the 1974 legislature convenes.

However, inaction this year would delay the effective date of proposed legislation—a fact which has prompted committees to schedule many bills during the final two weeks.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee Wednesday plans to act on a bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, imposing a tough conflict-of-interest requirement on all public elected officials in California.

The panel also will hear a Senate-passed measure by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, that would permit the sale of prophylactics in vending machines in California rest rooms.

And the Senate Finance Committee plans this week to take up a bill by Moretti, D-Van Nuys, permitting advertising of prescription drugs and requiring pharmacists to post prices of the 100 most commonly used drugs.

Blanket-snatching wife slain by mate

BERGAMO, ITALY (UPI) — Giacomo Bonaomi told police he shot and killed the woman he had been married to for 19 years over the weekend because she was a blanket-snatcher.

Bonanomi, 63, said he and his wife, Francesca, 77, had a series of minor quarrels recently and when she continued to "take away the blanket" as they slept it was the last straw.

A magistrate ordered Bonanomi sent to the provincial neuropsychiatric hospital.

Here's how it works

U.S.-Russ 'hot line' is now 10 years old

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ten years ago the United States and Russia began operating the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow, a link designed to provide instant contact between leaders of the two nuclear super powers and to reduce the danger of war due to miscalculation or accident on the part of either.

Contrary to the concept held by devotees of the late show on television or espionage fiction, the "hot line" is not a telephone circuit terminating on the desks of President Nixon and Soviet Communist Party boss Leonid Brezhnev.

It is a link composed of cables running from Washington through London and Helsinki to Moscow with two teleprinters at each end. There is a standby radio system. Satellite communication will be used as soon as the U.S. and Soviet systems are synchronized.

The Washington end of the line terminates in the National Military Command Center in the Pentagon where there is, right beside the machines, a telephone on which the President can be reached immediately no matter where he is in the world.

The terminal at the Russian end is in the office of Brezhnev at Communist Party headquarters, across Red Square from the Kremlin, where he has his other office.

The receiving machines in Moscow, which have English alphabets, were supplied by Washington. The teleprinters in the Pentagon which take the incoming copy print in the Cyrillic alphabet of the Russians were provided by the Soviet Union.

The "hot line" first was proposed officially by the United States at the Geneva Disarmament Conference in 1962. The Russians became very interested in it after the Cuban missile crisis in October of that year. At that time, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Kennedy found efforts to avoid a perilous confrontation were hampered by the need to use slow and awkward diplomatic channels which sometimes took many hours to deliver a message. The result was the hot line.

The only known use of the hot line during a period of crisis came during the June 1967 war between Israel and the Arabs. President Johnson, in his memoirs, reported that he was awakened early in the morning of June 5, 1967, by word from the Pentagon that the Russians were on the hot line with urgent business.

Johnson reported the hot line exchanges from the beginning showed that both Washington and Moscow were anxious to work together to avoid any nuclear confrontation and end the war. The very first Russian message from Premier Alexei Kosygin said the Soviet Union would work for a cease-fire and asked the United States to do likewise.

A perilous clash was averted on June 8 when a U.S. Navy communications ship was torpedoed off the Sinai Coast by Israel, which later asserted it was a mistake. Johnson reassured Kosygin that U.S. warplanes were taking off from American carriers in the area only to aid the stricken American ship and not to enter the battle.

Toward the end of the six-day war, the Israelis entered Syria, and rumors flew that they intended to capture Damascus. Kosygin told Johnson the situation was critical and Moscow might have to take action unless Israel halted operations within the next few hours.

Johnson sent U.S aircraft carriers near Syria but at the same time told Kosygin on the hot line that he had urged Israel to cease fire and had been assured that she would do so.

At the closely-guarded post in the Pentagon, a team of three highly-skilled servicemen always is on duty, sending test messages in English 12 times a day on the even hours and receiving test messages in Russian the same number of times on the odd hours. Each of the five three-man teams has a member very fluent in Russian and competent to translate to the President any message received from Moscow.

Abbot first used B.C., A.D.

The custom of dating events B.C. (before Christ) and A.D. (anno Domini, in the year of our Lord) was introduced about 525 by Dinysius Exiguus, a Roman abbot and astronomer, who set Christ's birth 753 years after the founding of Rome.

An accident has a happy ending

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) —Policeman Jan De Wit, 23, and beauty specialist Mary De Wilde, 23, were married this week—20 months after they met when Jan rescued Mary from her car, which had tumbled into a canal.

Dodgers blow N.L. West, 8-1 leads

Bobby Bonds' slam topples L.A.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Bobby Bonds is having a "miracle" season, the kind most ballplayers dream about, and now he's hoping some of the magic will rub off on his San Francisco Giants teammates.

Monday night on national television, Bonds put on a show guaranteed to earn him votes for the National League Most Valuable Player award but more importantly, he helped rally the Giants to an 11-8 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and revived their pennant hopes.

Down by 9 ½ games as recently as Aug 14, the Giants now are five behind the Dodgers and Cincinnati, who share the NL West lead with 83-55 records. The Giants are 77-59.

Bonds, who scored a key run in a six-run seventh inning rally that put the Giants within a run after they trailed 8-1, broke up the game with a grand-slam homer off Jim Brewer in the ninth.

It was Bonds' 37th homer and gave him 90 RBIs along with a .302 batting average, 114 runs scored and 38 stolen bases, certainly impressive credentials for MVP honors.

"I don't honestly care about any individual records," said Bonds. "All I'm interested in is our winning the division first and the pennant later. Sure, I'd be honored by any awards I get but winning the pennant is something no one ever forgets."

Willie Crawford drove in four runs with a homer and triple and Bill Buckner had three RBIs with a homer and two singles to give Tommy John an 8-1 lead going into the seventh. Up to then, the only damaging blow John gave up was Willie McCovey's 24th homer in the fourth.

But in the seventh, Gary Matthews and McCovey singled and Chris Speier's ground-rule double scored Matthews. John struck out the next two batters before Dave Rader singled to score McCovey and Speier and pinch-hitter Steve Ontiveros also singled.

That brought on Pete Richert and Bonds greeted him with a ground rule double scoring Rader and sending Ontiveros to third. Dave Lopes took Tito Fuentes' grounder to second on the run as Ontiveros scored. But while the off-balance Lopes held the ball, Bonds kept on going and beat his wide throw to leave the Giants short only a run.

A walk and two fielder's choices on bunts loaded the bases in the ninth and Brewer replaced Richert. Bonds then homered to break up the game. for Brewer, earlier in the year the Dodgers' most reliable reliever, it was the third homer he has given up in his last four appearances.

Walter Alston, the Dodger manager, was thoroughly upset by the turn of events.

"I've never seen anything like that," he said. "This was more demoralizing than losing 1-0."

STRIKEOUT ARTIST

Angel pitcher Nolan Ryan sets an American League two-season strikeout record with 12 against the Oakland A's Monday night. Ryan, who has 326, is approaching Sandy Koufax's record of 382.

Ryan closes in on strikeout mark

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Baseball fans planning trips to Anaheim Stadium during the remaining four weeks of the season should circle the dates of Sept. 11, 15 and 27.

That's when Nolan Ryan is scheduled to pitch.

With six starts remaining this season, it appears Ryan will definitely break Sandy Koufax's record of 382 strikeouts in a season, a mark set in 1965.

Ryan fanned 12 Oakland A's batters Monday evening to increase his season total to 326, 56 short of Koufax's record. Since Ryan is averaging 10.47 strikeouts per game, he only needs to maintain his present pace.

There is also the possibility of Ryan hurling his third no-hitter of the season.

After just missing in an one-hitter last week against the Yankees, Ryan flirted with a no-hit gem Monday before Oakland's Reggie Jackson broke the spell with a solid single with two outs in the sixth inning.

But the big thing for Ryan is winning. Monday's 3-1 victory over the world champion A's evens Nolan's season mark at 16-16 as he keeps alive his chances to enter the charmed 20-victory club.

Besides his 12 strikeouts, Ryan ended the evening with a three-hitter, just missing a shutout when Oakland's Pat Bourque, a designated hitter recently acquired from the Chicago Cubs, tagged a two-out homer in the ninth inning.

As usual whenever Ryan pitches, the 14,182 fans were able to salute some records.

The Texan bettered his own American 10 batters for the 19th time this season. League mark by striking out at least He also broke Rube Waddell's A.L. record for strikeouts in consecutive seasons. Nolan's 655 total tops Waddell's mark of 650 set back in 1904.

For awhile, it appeared like Ryan would fan at least 20 batters Monday as he mowed down nine through the first four innings, striking out the side in the first and third frames.

But Ryan's pace slowed down as he was able to record only three strikeouts through the final four innings.

"I seem to be losing my zip in my fastballs in the late innings these days and I think it showed in that homer in the ninth," Ryan said. "It's probably because I've pitched more innings this season than I ever did before."

Ryan also admits he is facing more pressure as he nears Koufax.

"Koufax told me a couple of weeks ago that the last strikeouts are the hardest," Ryan said. "I think that's true, because I'm feeling the pressure more and more now."

Ryan received some support from his teammates, a rarity this season, as the Halos belted nine hits against three Oakland pitchers.

Back-to-back doubles by Bob Oliver and Lee Stanton scored the first run in the second inning off of starter Blue Moon Odom.

The Angels gave Ryan some insurance in the seventh by scoring a pair against reliver Darold Knowles. Ken Berry singled, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt and came home home on Sandy Alomar's double.

After Alomar went to third on a wild pitch, he scored on Vada Pinson's sacrifice fly on a controversial call at home plate as Oakland catcher Gene Tenace was convinced he tagged Alomar in time.

Oakland, seeking its third consecutive American League West crown, has now lost three in a row but the defending champs still hold a comfortable 3½-game lead over Kansas City because of the Royals' loss.

ANGEL NOTES — Bill Singer, bidding for a 20-victory season, takes his 17-11 record against Oakland's Ken Holtzman (19-11) tonight in a top pitching match. . .

The rest of the series has Rudy May (7-13) vs. Catfish Hunter (17-3) Wednesday and Clyde Wright (10-18) vs. Vida Blue (15-19) Thursday. . .

Monday's crowd put the Angels above 900,000 for the season at the Big A as a million-plus campaign is for certain. The Halos are 267,377 above last year's attendance pace. . . .

Catcher Art Kusnyer has rejoined the Angels. Frank Tanana, Andy Hassler, Mickey Rivers, Dave Chalk and Charlie Sands will be reporting from Salt Lake City tonight.

NFL coaches begin juggling lineups today

By United Press International

The great National Football League Coaches juggling act is in full bloom today.

Monday was the next-to-last cutdown for NFL clubs, with rosters pared to 44 players, including members of the College All Star team, who didn't count previously. But in a sense, Monday's cuts were the most important of the training camp for coaches since they are the last cuts which can be recalled.

Players dropped next Monday when teams must meet the regular-season limit of 40 men cannot be recalled if claimed by another club.

The common practice now is for coaches to cut under the limit, recall any worthwhile player claimed, and offer him to the claiming club in a trade.

It's also the time of year the coaches of the weaker clubs wait for. Waiver claims are made in reverse order of last year's standings and the havenots get first crack at players dropped by the top clubs.

In moves made Monday, Pittsburgh traded Ralph "Sticks" Anderson, their starting free safety, to New England for a draft choice. The trade of Anderson, a 6-foot-1, 180-pounder, opens up a starting berth for Glen Edwards.

The Steelers also announced that running back Franco Harris and defensive tackle Tom Keating may miss the final pre-season game against Atlanta this weekend with knee injuries.

Buffalo sent Mike Stratton, a 12-year veteran linebacker, to San Diego for a draft choice and then obtained rookie quarterback Randy Mattingly on waivers from Chicago.

Philadelphia dropped Billy Walik, a four-year veteran kick return specialist, defensive back Pat Gibbs, offensive tackle Richard Stevens and four rookies. Guard Roy Kirksey, obtained from the New York Jets last week, failed the Eagles' physical.

San Francisco traded wide receiver Jubilee Dunbar, their No. 3 draft pick a year ago, to New Orleans for a draft choice.

Dallenbach picks up $109,518.18 for winning 500

ONTARIO — For winning the California 500 Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway, Wally Dallenbach collected a total purse of $109,518.18, plus a car, a Datsun pickup truck, and a motorcycle.

The total prize money distributed in the race was $384,537.50, it was announced Monday.

Last year's winner Roger McCluskey received $127,609.90 out of $670,000 in prize money.

Except for the Indianapolis 500, the purse in the Cal 500 is the biggest in USAC racing.

Dallenbach won this year's race by five seconds over Mario Andretti, who picked up $46,380.68. Third place went to Mike Mosley, who pocketed $27,105.68.

Aaron claims he can catch Ruth this year

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Hank Aaron said before the season he thought he could hit 35 homers this year, even if he was 39 years old.

Now, 35 homers later, he says Babe Ruth's 714 career mark can be reached this season.

No one's betting against him.

The Braves' star homered twice in consecutive times at bat for his 707th and 708th career home runs Monday night in leading Atlanta to a 7-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Both homers left the park at about the same spot—about the 340-foot mark in left centerfield. The first one was sent over the 17-foot wall while the second one hit above the yellow stripe and bounced back onto the field.

"I wasn't tired," Aaron, said after being taken out of the game in the seventh inning. "I could go out and play another game."

The 19-year veteran, who began the season in somewhat of a slump, was even feeling better about his hitting. After being a little sensitive to criticism that he was only going for homers this season, Aaron has managed to raise his average to .279.

"I might even think about trying to hit .300," he joked. "I might get out my chokeup swing, forget the home runs and start spraying the ball around."

Aaron's first homer came in the third inning after Mike Lum singled off loser Clay Kirby, 7-16. The second blast was hit with the bases empty off Vicente Romo for Aaron's 35th of the season.

The two line drives tied him with Ruth for the most home runs hit in one league. Ruth, after hitting 708 homers in the American League, collected his last six in the National League.

It was the fifth time this year that Aaron has homered twice in a game.

Darrell Evans, Paul Casanova and Marty Perez also homered for the Braves and Fred Kendall, Jerry Morales and Dave Roberts had homers for San Diego.

A youngster in the stands grabbed Aaron's first homer and sold it to another fan for $70 on the spot. Aaron got the second home run ball back.

Roric Harrison, 9-4, goes for Atlanta tonight against Rich Troedson, 6-5.

Without Billie Jean

Forest Hills play continues

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Without Billie Jean King and without Ilie Nastase —the two 1972 champions —the U.S. Open tennis championships resumed today with Stan Smith America's No. 1 hope in the men's division and Chris Evert squarely on the spot to win her first major title.

Smith, who has dropped only one set in the tournament thus far, was slated to meet Seattle's Tom Gorman, while Miss Evert, by a strange quirk in scheduling, had the day off before her quarter-final clash with Rosie Casals.

For Rosie, Monday had been a traumatic day. Her great friend Billie Jean had fallen, as much or more to the heat and humidity than to the play of Julie Heldman, while Rosie had waltzed through that same horrendous weather to wipe out Kris Kemmer of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-4.

For Mrs. King, Monday was a disaster. She had all but toyed with Miss Heldman in a 6-3 first set, and ran off the first three games of the second set, but then it began to come apart at the seams. Julie won a game. It was 3-1. Billie went to 4-1, and then Julie raced through five straight for the set at 6-4 and opened the third for six straight and a 1-0 lead.

The heat was pressing the defending champion now, but Mrs. King hung in there for that one, last time. The 27-year-old Miss Heldman broke her for a 3-1 edge, and it was Billie's service.

By now, the alarm fires had been lit and as many in the crowd of 11,748 as was humanly possibly jammed their way around the clubhouse court.

Mrs. King was now wandering around the court, not chasing her opponent's returns. She was in a daze, and between points Miss Heldman asked if she were alright.

"I feel like I'm going to faint," Billie Jean replied, and promptly lost the game to trail, 4-1.

As they changed sides, Miss Heldman, a stickler for rules, noted that time was passing, and that rules stress only one minute of respite is permitted. She asked the umpire if the time was up. If it was, then, she said, "if she wants to retire she has to now."

Billie, her dreams of adding a fifth Forest Hills title to the five Wimbledon crowns she now holds, gazed through the haze and said: "If you want it that bad, you can have it."

Dr. Daniel Manfredi, the West Side Tennis Club physician, examined Billie and said it was just as well she had retired, for she may have "collapsed" on the court. He said the 29-year-old champion had been taking medication for a virus condition and that could have contributed to her inability to stand the ferocious 96 degree temperature and high humidity.

But it was just as hot for Miss Heldman, of course, and certainly for 38-year-old Ken Rosewall.

Rosewall, the winner here 'way back in 1956 and again in 1970, continued to defy the thermometer and the calendar. He whisked through to his fourth straight-set match to gain the quarterfinals. This time his victim was Cliff Richey, the 16th seed, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3. It was a hard loss for Richey to take, but perhaps the heat got to him at last. He had played 14 sets in winning his first three matches.

Rosewall's next match will be against the intriguing 19-year-old Indian star, Vijay Amritraj, who had stunned and delighted the crowd by his breathtaking five-set win over Rod Laver on Saturday and then on Monday had no difficulty at all in a 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 win over Australia's Allan Stone.

Jimmy Connors had little trouble with a strangely quiescent Tom Okker, winning in straight sets, and John Newcombe put an end to the hopes of 24-year-old Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia. Pattison had the honor of putting out Nastase last week in the first shocker of this $227,200 tournament.

Rams welcome Stukes, Drake to Blair camp

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —The Los Angeles Rams ran through their first drill of the preseason at their regular training camp at Bair Field Monday and were joined by two players making their first appearance with the team.

The club also put four men on waivers, but their names won't be announced for several days.

Eight-year veteran safety Charlie Stukes, acquired in a trade with Minnesota, and rookie safety Bill Drake of Oregon, claimed from Dallas, joined the squad in workouts for the first time.

The Rams went through a two-hour drill, highlighted by interceptions by linebacker Isiah Robertson and strong safety Dave Elmendorf. The team is concentrating on improving its defensive secondary.

Sports in brief

Casper captures GHO with seven-under-par

BILLY CASPER shot a seven-under-par 64 and sank a tie-breaking 15-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole Monday to win the $200,000 Greater Hartford Open by one stroke over Bruce Devlin with a record 72-hole score of 264, 20 under par.

MILWAUKEE BREWER pitcher Eduardo Rodriguez did something Monday no other American League pitcher has done this season—he got a hit.

Rodriguez tripled and scored a run in the eighth inning of Milwaukee's 13-5 win over Cleveland in the first game of a doubleheader.

DETROIT TIGER coaches Art Fowler and Charlie Silvera,both personally selected by Billy Martin, joined their recently deposed manager on unemployement Monday when they also were fired.

Martin, fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers Sunday, said today he "did not order" the illegal pitches which precipitated the loss of his job.

The controversial former Tiger manager also said he didn't know if he ever wanted to manage again and was going to take a few days off to think over his future.

CALE YARBOROUGH ended a personal three-year superspeedway drought Monday, taking a narrow victory over David Pearson in the Southern 500 stock car race in Darlington, S.C.

MARIO ANDRETTI captured the U.S. Auto Club 100-mile dirt track championship race Monday at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds after teammate Al Unser's car broke down on the last lap.

BRIAN REDMAN finished first in the Formula 5000 championship race Monday, but a third place finish gave South African Jody Scheckter the series title.

JOHN HENCKEN set a world 100 meters breastroke record today to lead every American swimmer safely through the first day's finals of the World Swimming Championships. Hecken's mark was 1:04.35 minutes.

CANADIAN GARY BECK blitzed both ends of the top fuel national record Monday en route to his second consecutive victory in the NHRA Nationals in Indianapolis.

Pilgrimage doing 'As You Like It'

HOLLYWOOD — The Los Angeles Free Shakespeare Festival opened Monday night with a performance of "As You Like It" at the Pilgrimage Theater.

All performances are free and there is free parking. The performances will be given every evening except Monday. Doors open at 7:30 and performances will start at 8. Seating is on a first come, first served basis.

Picnic areas are available for groups to enjoy the beautiful setting and be assured of seating.

"As You Like It,' one of Shakespeare's most delightful comedies, will be played by cast of well-known actors including Penny Fuller, Kristoffer Tabori, Joan Van Ark, William Schallert, Roscoe Lee Browne and Burr De Benning under director Alfred Ryder.

The Pilgrimage Theater is at 2580 Cahuenga Blvd East, across the Hollywood Freeway from Hollywood Bow. Information can be obtained at (213) 469-3974.

Misha Dichter to substitute for Watts

HOLLYWOOD Andre Watts, scheduled to play Brahms' Second Concerto with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at Hollywood Bowl Thursday, has had to cancel all appearances for two weeks because of illness.

Replacing him will be Misha Dichter.

Dichter will play the Brahms concerto under Lawrence Foster, with whom he performed the Rachmaninoff-Pagnaini Rhapsody at the bowl two weeks ago.

Also on the program will be Prokofieff's Symphony No. 5.

Injuries from bridge leap prove fatal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A 21-year-old man who leaped from the Golden Gate Bridge Saturday was pulled alive from the chilly waters of San Francisco Bay, only to die before an ambulance could arrive.

Jeff Allen Chakin of Palo Alto, Calif., became the 496th known suicide from the span since it was opened in 1937. Six persons have survived the leap.

Frustrating bids turn OK

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South was rather frustrated right through the bidding. He found himself rebidding a four-card diamond suit; cue bidding with an absolute minimum and then bidding a four no-trump which he hoped his partner would interpret as a sign-off and not as Blackwood.

When North did give it the desired interpretation and jumped to six diamonds, South passed happily and hoped to see a good dummy.

The dummy was quite satisfactory, but South saw problems. Somehow or other he wanted to cash six trump tricks. He decided that the plan would be to ruff two clubs in his own hand, but other things had to come first.

He won the heart lead with dummy's king and promptly led a heart toward his own hand. He didn't really worry about East ruffing because East would be ruffing a loser, but East followed suit.

Now South cashed the ace and queen of trumps; led a spade to the ace; ruffed another club; led a spade to the king; cashed dummy's king of trumps; led the six of spades and went right up with the queen.

West showed out, but that was no problem. He just ruffed his last spade and let East use his good trump to ruff dummy's losing club.

Merit panel to mull policy on women, minority hiring

POMONA — A proposed "Affirmative Action" policy declaring the extent to which the city is prepared to go to insure that women and members of minority ethnic and racial groups are given a fair share of the various city jobs will be considered Wednesday by the Merit System Commission.

The commission will meet at 7 p.m. in the City Council chambers to review the proposal, which states in part:

"It is the ultimate objective of the City of Pomona through the increased utilization of qualified minorities and females to reach population parity for our labor market at all levels within our organization by 1975 or at the earliest possible date.

"It shall also be the objective of each department to reduce turnover among minority and female employes in order to improve their utilization and increase their promotional opportunities."

Adoption by the city of such a policy statement would be in keeping with recommendations made in a report issued in September 1971 by the state Fair Employment Practice Commission (FEPC) following an investigation into the city's hiring practices.

The probe had been requested by the regional office and the Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). The FEPC authorized the investigation Sept. 10, 1970, and the report was made public in October of 1971.

The report in general was critical of city government for not doing more to hire members of minority groups as city employes but also credited the city for already having taken some steps forward.

Since the report came out, the city had taken additional steps to implement the 11 recommendations made by the FEPC.

The proposed policy has been reviewed by the Community Life Commission. Support was expressed by the Rev. Harold C. Price, chairman, and Commissioners Keenneth P. Denny and Tom L. Lopez.

A fourth member, George C. Fowler Jr., said he believed the proposal would meet the intent of government regulations and requirements, but added, "My only real concern is that the 'aggressive recruitment' of 'qualified females and minorities' might lead to reverse discrimination."

Opposition to the proposed stateent was voiced by another member of that commission, John P. Perkins.

"While I have no opposition to equal opportunity employment by the city of Pomona, I find myself definitely opposed to the ideas outlined in the Affirmative Action Policy," said Perkins.

"To on one hand advertise equal opportunity and then to deliberately set about in a plan of action to favor certain racial or ethnic people is in itself an attempt to mislead, and, I think, be dishonest to the public we serve," Perkins declared.

The proposal states that Pomona's Affirmative Action Policy will be more than simple compliance with state and federal laws.

"The City of Pomona has an Affirmative Action Policy because we believe in the American principle of equal opportunity for all. We believe that it is our obligation to contribute in the effort to solve employment problems which confront our society," the six-page proposal reads.

The proposal assigns to the council, Merit System Commission, city administrator, personnel officer and department heads specific responsibilities in carrying out the new policy.

Department heads, for example, are made responsible for initiating programs to train disadvantaged employes, for identifying qualified minorities and females to be absorbed into the supervisory and mangement level positions, for establishing goals and timetables within their respective departments, and for insuring implementation of affirmative action by supervisors.

The proposal directs that a nondiscrimination statement be included in the personnel rules and regulations, in job advertising, be posted on bulletin boards and the personnel office, and be made known to employment and recruiting services.

The city administrator would be required to initiate meetings with department heads and top-level supervisors on the new policy, which would be explained to new city employes at orientation sessions.

The personnel department would be required to advertise for jobs in minority publications and department heads would be encouraged to utilize minority vendors and contractors "whenever possible."

The proposal also covers promotions and transfers, testing, terminations and the requirement that a periodic evaluation and progress report be made to the council.

The paper directs that job tests be evaluated to make sure they are relevant, that written examinations be eliminated when possible, and that interviewers be required to give in writing reasons for failing candidates.

'Tail trying to wag the dog'

Schabarum wants reins on SCAG freedom, power

Peter Schabarum, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors, is urging a revamping of both the membership and geographical areas included in the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG).

Schabarum described SCAG as the "tail that's trying to wag the dog," and said its professional staff operates almost independently of the Board of Supervisors and virtually "runs the show."

The First District supervisor recently won endorsement by the board for a four-point policy statement which declares opposition to relinkuishes local authority to what he sees as a move toward regional government.

At the same time, Schabarum said he objected to the present membership on the board of directors which gives a rural member agency, such as Imperial County, a matching vote in matters of implicit concern to Los Angeles County.

"I may sound provincial," said Schabarum, "but I don't believe Imperial County should have an equal say-so in Los Angeles County transportation affairs."

Schabarum has asked Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley to reveiw the board's new policy statement on SCAG and lend his support.

The four-point policy declares:

—SCAG is and should remain a voluntary association of local governments.

—SCAG should act primarily as a planning and review agency with only such regulatory power as necessary to carry out those functions.

—The land use and home rule authorities should continue to be the responsibilities of the cities and counties.

—The control of funds and decision-making process should continue to be vested in those bodies currently empowered to exercise such authority.

Scahabarum said if he wins support from the City of Los Angeles for the policy statement then the city and county should "dictate to the staff of SCAG that these principles be the ones by which they pursue their work."

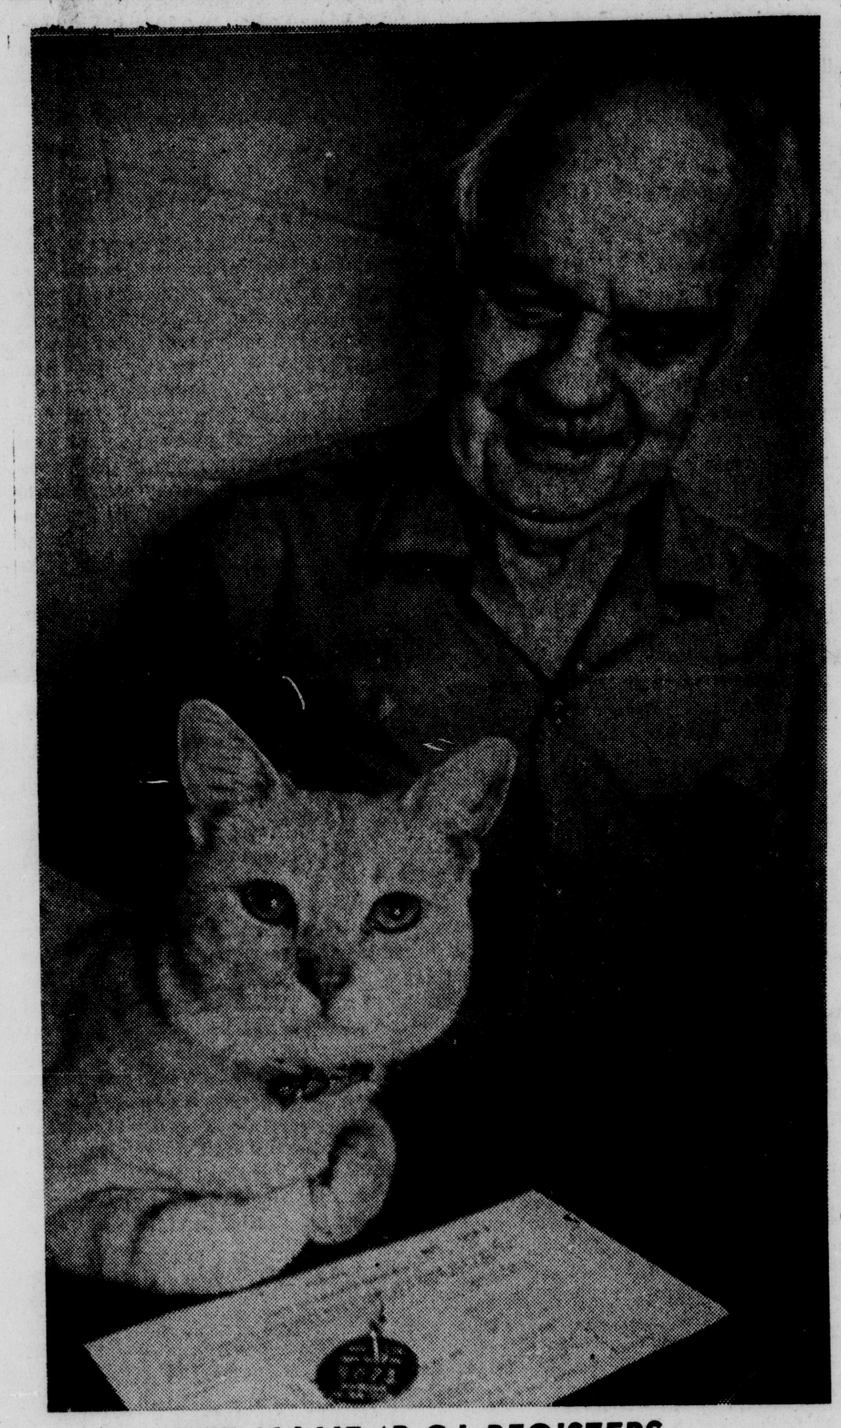

One of the priority issues in continuing membership on SCAG, said Schabarum, is to "hammer out a system of control and authority within SCAG."

Schabarum said he strongly favors restructuring both the membership of the SCAG board of directors, which gives each member agency despite the size and interests of its constituency an equal vote, and the geographical boundaries.

Areas of mutual concern and approximate size perhaps should break off from the organization and form their own association with membership on the new governing board reflecting the constituency, he said.

Schabarum has also asked for broad-based support in opposing Assembly Bill 1181 as introduced into the legislature recently by SCAG.

The measure would establish SCAG as a statutory government entity, creating a new level of regional government with authorities contrary to the policy and views of the Board of Supervisors, Schabarum said.

THE NAME 'B.C.' REGISTERS

William Goodall applies for the first registration tag to be issued under a new, voluntary program open to cat owners in Pomona, Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne, for his pet, "B.C." Tags are being sold by the Humane Society of Pomona Valley which enforces animal regulations in the four cities.

Prevent a cat-astrophe by registering your pet

POMONA — The Humane Society of Pomona Valley for the first time is offering a program that will make it easier for cat owners to retrieve their lost pets and at the same time help the animal shelter pay for its cat welfare activities.

On a voluntary basis, the society is permitting owners in Pomona, Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas to purchase a cat registration tag under the new program which goes into effect Sept. 15.

Tags, which can be ordered now, will cost $3 each and will be renewable annually.

The tag will include an identification number and the phone number of the Humane Society and is being offered only to cat owners who voluntarily want to cooperate with the cat ID program.

The society operates an animal shelter at Mission Boulevard and Roselawn Avenue here.

Last year, the society received and fed more than 13,000 cats, including 7,000 picked up as strays. Of the 7,000 cats impounded, only 124 were reclaimed by owners, according to Bruce Richards, executive director.

"Often cat owners who have lost their cats wait too long before starting a search to locate the missing pet. They often believe that he'll return after making the rounds and too often they never see their cat again," said Richards.

"If the cat had a registration tag attached to its flea collar, we could get the cat back the same day."

He noted the reluctance of owners to place collars on their cats in the fear the collar may become caught on something.

"The chance of that happening is extremely rare. Most veterinarians and animal control people have never seen a case of a cat who was caught on an object because it was wearing a collar," said Richards.

"Today, more and more cat owners are being advised to put a flea collar on their pets to discourage parasites."

Arrangements for purchasing the cat tags may be made by visiting the shelter Monday through Saturday during normal business hours and additional information may be obtained by phoning the society at 623-9777.

Y will distribute unclaimed bicycles

POMONA — The Pomona Valley YMCA for the second time has been designated by the City Council as the agency in charge of distributing to needy persons bicycles that are left unclaimed at the police department.

Some of the bicycles that need repairs will be repaired through a vocational training program at Glenn Rockey Boys School in San Dimas.

Metal firm hit by $2,500 fire

POMONA — A fire that started in an electro plating tank caused $2,500 damage to the roof and machinery at the Cam Metal Corp., 159 N. San Antonio Ave., Monday afternoon.

Spontaneous combustion was the cause of the fire, which started in a tank that is used to extract zinc from metal. The plant reclaims metals.

The fire spread to the roof of the building before firemen arrived at 3:02 p.m.

Y to recruit for parent, child program

POMONA — The Pomona Valley YMCA will hold a recruiting drive for its Y Indian Guide and Y Indian Princess program during the final two weeks of September.

The drive is being held in conjunction with National Y Indian Guide and Princess Week, Sept. 17-21. Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire has designated that week as Y Indian Guide and Princess Week in Pomona.

The program is open to all first, second and third-grade students in the Pomona Valley area. The program is designed to promote father-son and father-daughter relations, but the program is also open to children from fatherless homes, said Lynn Franklin of the Pomona Valley YMCA staff.

Flyers explaining the Y Indian Guide and Princess programs will be distributed to all elementary schools during the recruitment drive.

For further information, persons may call the YMCA at 623-6433.

After-Stroke group sets rummage sale

POMONA — The Organization for After-Stroke Resocialization will hold a benefit rummage sale Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 215 Pomona Mall West.

Funds will be used to support activities for members.

Clothing, toys, jewelry, household goods, books and furniture will be offered at the sale.

The Organization for After-Stroke Resocialization is a new, non-profit volunteer unit designed to meet the needs of stroke patients in the East San Gabriel and Pomona valleys.

Those wishing to make donations or obtain further information may call 593-1336 or 624-2163.

Sales and earnings increase sharply for Buffums' chain

POMONA — After receiving news of sharp earnings gains for the first half of the year, the board of directors of Buffums' voted a sizable increase in the company's regular quarterly cash dividend to 15 cents a share.

Buffums' operates nine department and specialty stores in Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties, including one here.

Vaile G. Young, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, noted that the new rate of 60 cents a share on an annual basis represents a 25 per cent increase over the previous rate of 48 cents a share on a yearly basis. The previous rate was set at the last directors' meeting in June.

He said the new rate is the maximum premissible under the new guidelines of the Committee on Interst and Dividends, and is a further step in the direction of the established policy of the directors to pay out approximately 50 per cent of earnings in cash dividends, subject to government regulations.

The dividend is payable Oct. 17, 1973 to shareholders of record Oct. 3, 1973.

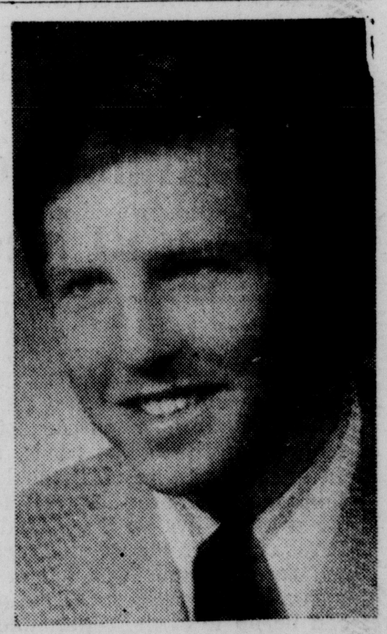

Young said that Buffums' continued to achieve record results in the second quarter and first half of the fiscal year.

For the six months ended July 31, 1973, sales increased 12 per cent to $18,769,083 from $16,706,515 in the same months of 1972. Net income totaled $329,547, 2½ times the $134,057 recorded a year ago.

On a per share basis, profits were equal to 34 cents a share on the 955,967 average shares outstanding, compared to 14 cents a share on the 931,656 average shares outstanding in the prior year as adjusted for the five-for-four stock split effected May 16, 1973.

Second quarter sales increased 11 per cent to $9,788,687 from $8,839,688 in the comparable period a year ago. Net income was $183,056 which was double the $91,193 recorded in the same quarter last year. Earnings on a per share basis were 19 cents versus 10 cents in the year earlier period as adjusted for the split.

Young said the gains in profits stemmed from higher sales in all nine of the company's existing stores coupled with continued stringent control of expenses.

RICK HAGSTROM

Savings, loan manager here gets new post

POMONA — Rick Hagstrom, manager of the local office of Great Western Savings and Loan Association, has accepted a position as regional manager for the San Diego Federal Savings and Loan Association.

He will depart from Pomona within two weeks to establish the San Diego association's new regional office in Sacramento. The office will be set up in an historical mansion four blocks from the State Capitol. The San Diego association acquired the mansion and will refurbish it.

Hagstrom, a graduate of Cal Poly Pomona, has been with Great Western Savings since 1964, working in Orange County before coming to Pomona to be manager of the office on the Pomona Mall. Early this year he was made a vice president. On July 1 he became a member of the Pomona Planning Commission. Hagstrom has been active in the Chamber of Commerce as chairman of the highly successful membership mixers.

Crisis, Suicide Service needs mature volunteers

POMONA — The annual call for volunteers is out by the Crisis and Suicide Prevention Service.

Mature persons interested in helping people "in trouble with life" are urged to telephone 985-2504. Those who are accepted will be given a 40-hour training program.

The training sessions will start Sept. 12 and will continue Wednesday evenings through Nov. 21. Professionals from the Voorman Clinic and the Schuman Psychological Center will supervise the program.

The Crisis and Suicide Prevention Service, the only one of its kind in the Pomona Valley area, offers help and comfort by telephone to persons of all ages who find the need to talk over their problems with someone detached. The calls and everything about them are confidential.

The service has handled more than 4,000 calls since it was begun two years ago.

Fight like tigers

The First Amendment, once the rock of the U.S. Constitution's Bill of Rights, has been, in recent months, yielding to an erosion of frightening proportions.

If not abated, the whittling away could cost the American people one of their most precious freedoms. What could be lost is the right to know what is going on around us, the right to know how we are governed, and how justice is administered.

The First Amendment, which, among other things, provides for freedom of the press, has been put upon in a dogged manner by the government and the courts at a variety of levels.

The thrust is being made on the premise that in certain instances it is beneficial for the government or the courts to decide for the people what is best for them to know.

A chilling doctrine.

We see secrecy in government from the lowest level to the Congress of the United States.

We see bold attempts by countless public officials to circumvent their obligation to conduct public business in full view of public scrutiny.

We see a growing number of instances where the doors of courts are closed, and trials conducted in quasi secrecy.

And this dangerous shift toward censorship is occurring so slowly and easily that lawyers and judges, even civil libertarians, and even many journalists, are accepting a weakened First Amendment as inevitable with little reckoning of how the trend could go or how heavy the eventual cost.

In the broad sense, it would seem the basic conflict would be between the courts and the news media. It is folly to make that assumption.

For the conflict is between the American people and those who would undermine their freedoms. The press is predominant in the battle only because it is the vehicle involved.

There is one non-journalist who sees the lurking threat clearly. He is noted jurist Harold R. Medina.

As he puts it:

"Some people may think that the leaders of the press would perhaps accomplish more if their claims of constitutional right were less expansive.

"I do not agree with this. I say it is their duty to fight like tigers right down the line, and not give an inch.

"This is the way our freedoms have been preserved in the past, and it is the way they will be preserved in the future."

The cost of the effort is not small. Newspapers across the nation have spent millions in the past two years supporting litigation based in one form or another on the media's freedom to collect news and disseminate it.

The Progress-Bulletin spent a considerable sum in the past year to protect its readers' right to know. Last fall a Superior Court judge in San Bernardino County ordered this newspaper and several others, under threat of contempt of court, not to print the names of nine inmate witnesses in the murder trial of two inmates at the Chino prison.

This newspaper and two others filed appeals in the belief that the judge was wrong in principle and that the court order infringed upon the freedom of the press and the public's right to an open trial.

Early this year the 4th District Court of Appeals sustained that belief and reversed the judge's decision.

In other cases of press censorship by judicial decree, some journalists have gone to jail to test the rights guaranteed them by the First Amendment. Surely, others will be jailed in the future.

The battle is far from over. But the cause is just, the objective is precious.

And acknowledging this we — all of us — should accept the challenge to "fight like tigers."

$2 a mile more than you know

Meanwhile, back on the campus some thought is being given as to acquainting motorists with the consequences of the overemphasis on private vehicles in terms they can best understand — the cost in dollars and cents, mostly the former.

Most people have no conception of the economic realities of the public roads, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology researcher. They think the roads are there,therefore use is free.

Far from it, says Dr. David Gordon Wilson. In terms of essential services, such as traffic direction and road maintenance, and of social consequences, such as urban congestion, the actual cost of driving can be up to $2 more per mile than a driver contributes in gasoline and other taxes for use of the roads.

He suggests installation in U.S. cars of a meter developed in Britain to bring home the economic facts of driving. If drivers were actually charged the additional $2 a mile (for rush-jour travel), he the additional $2 a mile (for rush-hour travel), he Revolutionary might be more like it.

The people: America's backbone

HENRY, Idaho — Are the American people, wracked by warfare and shaken by scandal, on the brink of a national nervous breakdown?

A solemn Henry Kissinger, talking privately to friends, has warned of the danger. He wonders how long the citizenry can endure the dreary diet of disarray, human tragedy, interruption of vital tasks and all the other adverse effects of the crisis in confidence.

In the backrooms of the Senate Watergate Committee, there have been worried whispers that the public may not be able to stand many more shocks. The Watergate horror has saturated the country with scandal until millions have begun to despair. Could this develop into a national psychosis?

On flying trips around the nation, I have watched for signs of shellshock in the people I have met. I have detected an undertone of anxiety, a sense of things gone wrong, a feeling of political betrayal.

Sick over Watergate

The antique dealer in upstate New York, the hotel operator on the Florida gold coast, the ranch wife on the Idaho-Wyoming border, the Sunday School teacher in southern California — all are sick over Watergate. Their faith in the President, their confidence in the government, their trust in the democratic processes have been jolted.

But despite the general uneasiness, America is still populated by sound, sensible, stable people who will weather the crisis. Across the land, as here in this ramshackle place called Henry, Idaho, America is still the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Henry is a shabby spot on the mountain slope, a few battered and blackened shacks that rise out of the sagebrush and quickly slump back into them. Most of the activity takes place at the city hall, post office and general store, which are located in the same one-room building.

The building, ravaged by harsh weather, with a leeward tilt from the heavy snows, looks like a relic from an old cowboy movie. It even has one of those sheer fronts that went out of style when Hoot Gibson turned in his spurs.

Bullet-hole profile

Inside, a huge pot-bellied stove dominates the room. On the wall behind it is a battered piece of tin, with a profile of Buffalo Bill Cody in bullet holes. It took Gus Peret 210 shots to blast out the profile with his six-guns back in 1925.

The sheep herders, who come here to buy canned goods and beef jerky, like to talk about the old days. They remember when the gold mine was still operating on nearby Caribou mountain. According to local legend, two badmen hijacked 400 pounds of gold. One was shot and the other couldn't lug all the loot. He stashed it away, so the story goes, and occasional adventurers still search the rugged ravines for the treasure.

The range people are quick to spot a phony. A blowhard, puffed up with his own importance, was driving down the highway with my friend, Arcola Von Almen, when, suddenly a tire went flat. "Why don't you blow it up?" suggested Arcola sweetly.

Another friend, Roland Smith, took me to Henry by boat across a lake on the Blackfoot Indian reservation. Roland was having trouble with his legs, which are badly scarred from a gasoline fire. He has a private gas tank at his home in nearby Soda Springs. Escaping fumes were ignited by a spark from the gas pump.

Sheet of flame

Suddenly his wife, Arlene, was enveloped in the blazing inferno. Ignoring the sheet of flame, Roland ran to her aid. He rolled her on the ground and covered her with dirt to smother the flames, although his own legs had caught fire and were causing intense pain.

Once he had extricated his wife and himself from the fire, he roared off in his car to the hospital. He left the fire blazing, fully expecting it to consume the home he had built with loving care. But a neighbor, seeing the fire, rushed over with a fire extinguisher in time to save the house.

Such are the people who are the backbone of America. In this season of disillusion, when our national spirit is damp and bedraggled, the people can still be counted on to do the right thing.

Whether it is Roland Smith defying death to save his wife or Judge John Sirica standing up to the President, the people can handle the crisis.

PAUL HARVEY

Color line divides Gary's people

The new black mayor of Los Angeles promises an equitable administration—unconcerned with color. Yet the black mayor of Gary, Ind., after six years in office, concedes that his most stubborn problems are race related.

Black Americans have discovered black power where it's at—in public office. They now occupy 2,915 politically prestigious offices in 40 states; significantly, half of them are in 11 Southern states. Yet the race-related problems of such cities persist.

Gary, Ind., dominated by steel mills, its 175,000 population mostly black, elected a black mayor, Richard Hatcher, in 1967. Today, six years later, Gary is still supported by United States Steel, its once-model school system is less than that now.

Gary's pollution remains one of our nation's worst. The crime rate in Gary has doubled in a decade and now exceeds even the supertough Fillmore district of Chicago.

And 8.5 per cent of Gary's population is on welfare.

Mostly it's crime which worries both blacks and whites. Yesteryear's crime in Gary involved graft-grabbing payrollers, corrupt politicians, mobsters who dominated gambling and prostitution.

Today's criminal burglarizes homes, mugs people on the street, robs storekeepers in daylight. Gary's white population, most of which has retreated into the Glen Park suburb, blames blacks. Blacks blame drugs.

James Holland, aide and adviser to Mayor Hatcher, says, "though blacks are in political control, whites are in economic control and it creates confrontations."

Though Hatcher promised—as Los Angeles' Tom Bradley has—equal treatment for all citizens black and white, the color line dividing Gary remains that city's principal barrier to progress.

And a black mayor, despite his best efforts, inevitably is a symbol of the schism. Gary's Human Relations Commission receives 1,000 complaints per year.

A Community Action Corp. founded in 1971 by whites sought to protect their "minority rights" while resolving differences—it hasn't.

A co-founder, Fred Eichorn, says the black-white polarity is apparent everywhere, though he refuses to concede that it is insurmountable. Hatcher sought and got 150 million federal dollars for housing, job training and health care.

Hatcher now feels his responsibility to the have-nots has been fulfilled, is talking of projects for whites and is promising a cultural and convention center.

But Gary's blacks remember 65 years when their snow got plowed last, if at all; when their garbage got collected last, if at all; when they got only the unwanted jobs around City Hall, and Mayor Hatcher's new overtures designed to mollify whites have already aroused black resentment. So the shoe on the other foot is not necessarily any more comfortable—for either foot.

Buses for Diamond Bar

It is really amusing to see the way people are against us living in Diamond Bar. Our children live many miles from Ganesha High School and it should be up to the school district to provide transportation.

If it was not the district's policy in the past years it was probably because public transportation was available or a school within walking distance was there. We are not asking for buses for the children who walk 1½ miles and over to Lorbeer Junior High School, but to walk to Ganesha is just not feasible.

I have eight years of driving or getting together car pools ahead of me with my three children. I ask you people of Pomona (and those of you in Diamond Bar who attended the school board meeting and probably don't have high school age children) is that fair?

To say we are not a poverty community and can afford to transport our own is not any reason to deny us buses. If an area of Pomona with as many miles involved were asking for buses I'm sure the attitude would be different.

If the district could afford such a large increase for their teachers, they can well afford to satisfy some of the people who pay for that raise.

Busing for integration is completely different from asking for buses to take our children to the nearest high school. We have no neighborhood high school.

And to you people of Diamond Bar let's not be afraid to ask for our rights. Buses to Ganesha High School or a neighborhood high school. Diamond Bar is growing and so is our share of taxes to the Pomona school district.—Lorraine Hildebrand, Diamond Bar.

Gossip for today

By actual count it has been determined that an average of 45,000 words a day were uttered at the Watergate Hearings. However, boil all those words down and skim off the resulting sludge and dross of sanctimonious sayings and puerile platitudes and you'll have only about 5,000 words a day that really prove much of anything. So what has actually been accomplished? — Even though some evidence of dirty tricks and criminal actions has been established you can make book on the fact that the American people will have many serious second thoughts before deciding to take any drastic action. For some time now they have been so conditioned to the frying pan that they are just not about to take the risk of getting out of that uncomfortable situation into a possible raging fire.

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon unable to concentrate on job

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — "What he really needs is a one month vacation, without any interruption."

That careful recommendation from an intimate of President Nixon reflects no particular fear that the President, groping out of the horrors of Watergate, is on the verge of nervous exhaustion.

It does reflect a view, now widening into the political consciousness of many politicians ranging from very friendly to hostile toward President Nixon, that the President should take a long breather from the heavy pressures of the Watergate crisis these past six months. The toll has been enormous.

Politicians accustomed to watching the President — any President — for signs of mood, direction or work habits are flabbergasted at the extraordinary changes of scenery which now seem such an essential part of Mr. Nixon's life.

The record of the peripatetic President's last three weeks of travel reads like a man desperately searching for a peace he cannot find: Aug. 9 at the White House; Aug. 10 and 11 at Camp David; Aug. 12 back at the White House; Aug. 14 back at Camp David; Aug. 15 back at the White House for two nights; Aug. 17 at Key Biscayne for three nights; Aug. 20 at San Clemente for 10 days.

As we write this, Mr. Nixon is due back East, in Washington or Camp David. So, during the past three weeks, he has moved from one place to another no less than eight times.

Traveling no way to rest

Every politician we have discussed this with agrees that no one can either work well or rest well under such conditions of permanent floating. As one presidential ally told us: "The President says he wants only to get on with the job of being President and leave Watergate behind, but how is that possible under the travel schedule that keeps pulling him away from the Oval Office?"

Moreover, the way Mr. Nixon has been spending his time the past few weeks strongly indicates that even in the Oval Office — or more likely in his preferred office in the Executive Office Building — the President has hardly been able to concentrate on "getting on with the job." Thus, he has consumed vast amounts of time studying the transcript of the Senate Watergate hearings, not cursorily but in unwholesome detail.

Presidential aides justified this study as inescapable cramming for his Aug. 22 press conference, stating further that Mr. Nixon's ability to come up with names and dates during his hostile questioning proves the time was well spent.

But not without serious cost to the President's repeated pleas that he be allowed to "get on with the job."

In two major recent appointments, for example, President Nixon has failed to find time to discuss any details at all either with the newly-named officials themselves or with other high officials directly concerned. In both cases, these intimate discussions were conducted for the President by the White House chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig, Jr.

More inaccessible than ever

President Nixon is even more inaccessible than he used to be for the kind of rambling; gossipy political talk with top aides which other Presidents have found invaluable to sharpen political perceptions about what is going on outside in the real world. Instead, Mr. Nixon's ability to let down his hair seems limited to old crony Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo.

This heightened introversion in a President who has always tended to be a loner became clearly visible with the disclosure this week of the President's departure in an unmarked car from his San Clemente estate to cruise the California freeways with Rebozo. Mr. Nixon's idol, Woodrow Wilson, likewise slipped out of the White House for long drives in the countryside with his wife, Edith, at the climax of his presidential crisis a half century ago.

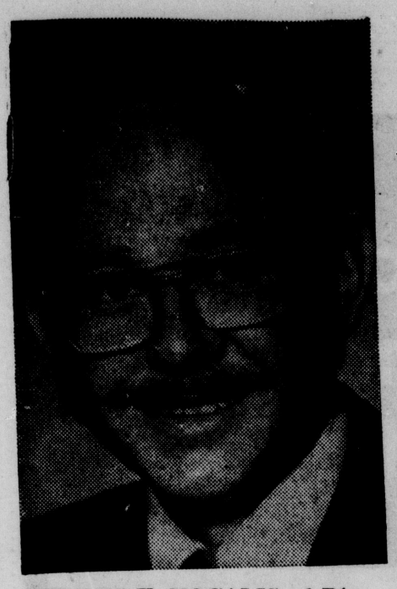

Preoccupation with his own descent on the slippery Watergate sluiceway from last November's heights of popularity has also taken a heavy toll in the President's legislative planning for his second term. Fundamentals of the New American Revolution, including special revenue-sharing and an aid-to-education bill that administration officials regard as extremely important, have gone unnoticed by Mr. Nixon.

Yet, intimates of the President are not surprised at this, considering the deep and ruthless cut Watergate has made in his presidency. Not blaming Mr. Nixon, they are hoping he, too, has a realistic understanding of the fearful toll he has had to pay. Only then, they believe, will Richard Nixon cease his ubiquitious wanderings, take the long vacation he requires and begin to restore his tainted presidency.

MSAC evening session grows, daytime shrinks

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College will open its fall semester Sept. 11 with 8,500 day and 7,000 evening students and two new buildings to house them.

The total enrollment is about the same as last semester, officials said, although there are fewer day students and more taking courses in the evening. The increase in nighttime students is attributed to a leveling off of college age residents in the district and adults returning to school for job retraining or upgrading.

A 19,570-square-foot athletic field house has been completed for use by the physical education department. Located on the south end of the MSAC Memorial Stadium, it has large locker rooms for both visiting and home teams, training room, equipment and uniform drying rooms, faculty offices, a large multipurpose room and storage and utility rooms.

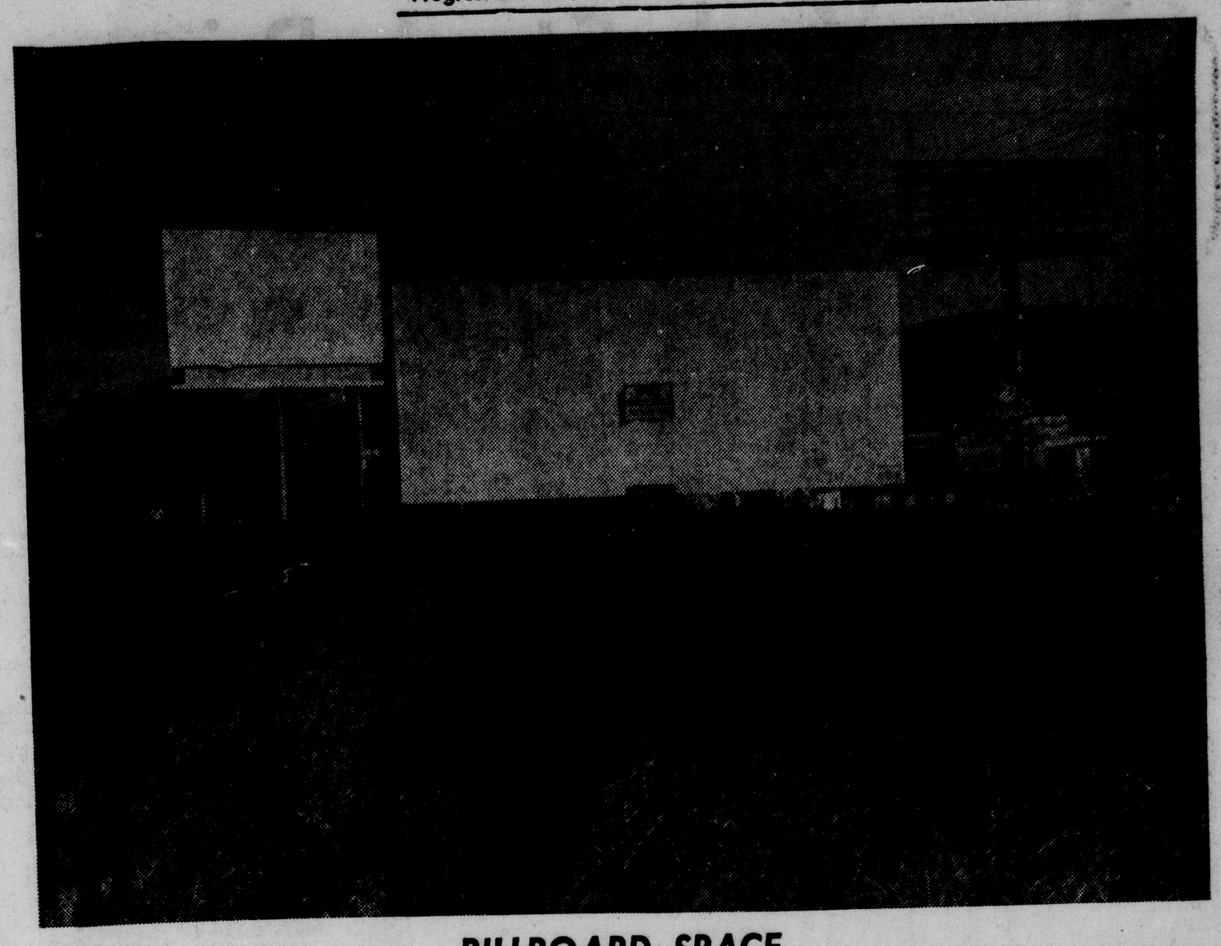

Locker room expansion is also in progress at Physical Education Center No. 2 near the college's new swimming pool, where the men's gym is being enlarged.

Students and faculty have also moved into a new Art Center building. The 28,000-square-foot single story structure provides room for ceramics, sculpture, wood and metal design, crafts design, print making and art fundamentals classes. Also included in the facility are areas for storage, work shop with power tools, conference room and faculty offices.

The Art Gallery in the older section of the existing Art Center is currently being remodeled to almost double the size of the gallery, allowing more space for larger, more diversified art show presentations throughout the year.

New programs beginning this semester include a new Veterans Education Program funded by an $80,000 allocation from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The funds will be used to provide veterans with direct grants to assist in their educations and to provide them with recruitment programs, counseling and tutoring.

BILLBOARD SPACE

Advertisers are apparently reluctant to utilize Diamond Bar billboard space, as the three empty billboards on Brea Canyon Road indicate. The large aerial billboard, which had featured a Kent Cigarette advertisement, has been the subject of citizen complaints and protests. Local residents contend the sign is an eyesore in violation of new legislation regulating the large signs.

Treatment, research work

D.B. Sertoma Club helping build speech-hearing center

DIAMOND BAR — Members of the Diamond Bar Sertoma Club are pledged to support a $400,000 hearing and speech therapy center being established at Birmingham, Ala., by Sertoma International, a men's service organization of more than 800 clubs and 30,000 members.

The Birmingham facility is designated headquarters for the treatment of communicative disorders. It also will house the Sertoma Foundation. Plans include the addition of a research center and educational laboratory.

The Diamond Bar Sertoma Club has donated funds to the Sertoma Foundation for the development of the center. It also has participated in hearing and speech programs by donating hearing aids to aurally handicapped children.

The most recent donation of hearing aids was made to the Pomona Unified School District.

Members of the Diamond Bar club feel this area of community service needs to be developed and plan to expand their program. They invite anyone interested to call 595-2997.

The formation of the Sertoma International Center for Communicative Disorders in Birmingham will mark the first time an international civic organization has undertaken delivery of a specific health service of this magnitude, members of the Diamond Bar Club claim.

The proposed center is the first phase of a massive speech and hearing disorders program which will coordinate testing and therapy activities of centers throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Construction of the headquarters will be followed quickly by establishment of centers in all 14 Sertoma regions in three countries. Plans for numerous subcenters and satellites will be announced later.

RHS, Nogales registering this week

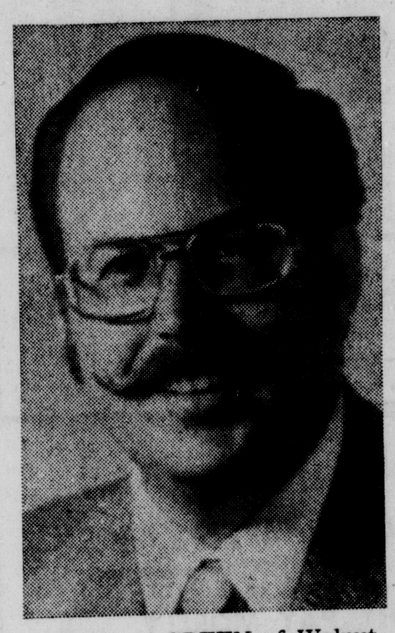

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dates for registration and freshman orientation at Nogales and Rowland high schools have been announced by administrators of the Rowland Unified School District.

At Nogales, ninth graders will be registered Thursday between 1 and 4 p.m.; 10th graders, Thursday between 9 a.m. and noon; 11th graders, Wednesday between 1 and 4 p.m. and 12th graders Wednesday between 9 a.m. and noon.

Freshman orientation will be held Friday from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

At Rowland High School, 10th graders will be registered Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon. Eleventh and 12th graders registered today.

Rowland freshman orientation will be held Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m.

State control over bicycle shops proposed by Montoya

SACRAMENTO — The increasing use of bicycles for leisure and transportation has prompted Assembly Majority Whip Joseph Montoya to introduce legislation to regulate the bicycle industry.

"More bikes are being sold in California than new cars," Montya, D-50th Dist., said. "And we must assure the quality of the product and the service."

The State Department of Consumer Affairs will be responsible for licensing bicycle repair shops under Montoya's bill.

Another bill by Montoya would prohibit the sale of bikes that are not fully assembled at time of sales. "The parent that assembles a 10-speed bike from the carton", said Montoya, "probably does not recognize the importance of tire alignment and brake adjustment."

Montoya, whose staff consulted with bicycle dealers, manufacturers and homeowner groups prior to introducing the legislation, reported that bicycle accidents have injured over 100 bicyclists this past year and claimed at least one life in his district.

Vejar School club board, committee members to bow

WALNUT — Bettye Gilpin, newly installed president of the Vejar Elementary School Community Club, will introduce her board members and committee chairmen to school faculty and staff during a "welcome back" luncheon at the school Wednesday.

Officers of the group for the 1973-74 school year are Pat Whalen, first vice president; Karen Holte, second vice president; Gayle Melbourne, recording secretary; Jeanie Stowell, corresponding secretary; Becky Rodriguez, treasurer; and Mary Dam, historian.

Chairman include Gladys Lovemark, auditor; Melba Olson, bowling; Nancy Engleke, School Coordinating Council representative; Carole Sidell and Louise Starr, decorations; Adele French and Sandy Klump, hamburger day; Audreyann Herring, health and welfare; Linda Houlihan and Betty Hansen, hot dog day; and Teri Geatley, ice cream day.

Other chairmen include Velma Cox, inside publicity and sixth-grade representative; Linda Kindt, Rosalie Nagy and Kathy Sulac, library; Elaine Murphy, outside publicity; Nan Lazzaretto and Karen Way, room mothers; Lynne Waldroop, service; Pat Taub and Sherry Kovach, ways and means; and Marlene Overby, workshop.

Walnut permsision sought to revise old tract map

WALNUT — When planning commissioners meet Wednesday night, they will be asked to give tentative approval to revision of a subdivision map previously approved in the 1930s.

Commissioners, convening in city hall at 7:30 are faced with a light agenda. Principal item is the proposal by Southern California Savings and Loan Association, which wants to revise the old subdivision map to conform with larger lot sizes.

Last week, city councilmen approved a zone change for the area, reducing a former minimum lot size from 8,500 square feet to 7,500 square feet. In that action it was pointed out that the area in question is now plotted out with 5,000-square-foot lots which could be legally developed despite the city's zoning regulations.

However, according to Planning Commissioner William Barns, the firm owning the land does not feel it can economically put in a project with such small lots. So, with zoning now approved, the area will be upgraded. Involved are about 18 lots in an area between the western city limits and Camino de Teodor, bounded by Paseo de Sevilla and Calle Baja.

2 school employes double as adult session teachers

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Mike Aguirre and Henrietta Allen are two employes of Rowland and Walnut Valley unified school districts who teach their specialties at the Rowland Evening Adult School.

Aguirre, ground foreman of Rowland district, makes a quick change on Thursdays then reports to the classroom where he teaches a course entitled "Working With Concrete and Block Materials."

Mrs. Allen, a bus driver, uses her layover to teach residents to drive.

The Rowland Adult School faculty includes two factory owners, a plant manager, four proprietors of retail outlets, two realtors, three police officers, eight professional artists and 14 skilled craftsmen.

All have earned adult teaching credentials.

Fall registration at the adult school opens today.

For high school diploma counseling, or additional information, persons may call 965-5975 between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. weekdays.

Enough classes to keep all in stitches

LA PUENTE — Beginning Sept. 11, the La Puente Community Adult School will offer 20 sewing and tailoring classes, eight knitting and crocheting classes and three needlecraft classes.

They will cover all levels of sewing and handiwork skills.

Classes will meet at varous locations throughout the Hacienda Heights-La Puente area.

Free child care will be available for students on the Hudson Adult School campus, at the Valley Vocational Center and at St. Andrews Presbyterian Church.

Information on any of the classes may be obtained by calling the adult school office at 213 968-4625 or 213 968-8452.

Rowland school prices hiked

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Unified School District once again will provide free and reduced-price meals to children from low-income families under the National School Lunch and Breakfast programs.

The first revision of school lunch prices since 1967 will take effect this fall, increasing school lunch prices from 35 to 40 cents.

The current food crisis also has forced the price of a half-pint of milk up from 5 to 10 cents, and a third of a quart of milk will be raised from 6 to 15 cents.

The school board has adopted an income-criteria guide to be used to determine eligibility for free or reduced-price food. Letters containing the guide, plus applications, have been mailed to district parents.

Children from a family of seven with a monthly gross income up to $633 will be eligible to receive free food. Children from the same size family, with a monthly gross income between $634 and $760, will be eligible for reduced-price food.

The reduced price will be 20 cents for lunch and 10 cents for breakfast.

Auto repair, tuneup classes at L.P. running all day long

INDUSTRY — The auto repair and tuneup department of La Puente Valley Adult School's Valley Vocational Center has expanded classes.

They're now open continuously from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"This increased class schedule reflects the need and importance of smog control and properly trained mechanics," said Ray McWherter, instructor.

The course takes approximately one year to complete for beginning students who attend full time.

Mechanics in the field can qualify for vaious mechanics licenses awarded by the state.

Further information on any aspect of the program may be obtained by calling 213 968-4638.

Paramedic work to be demonstrated

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Home Owners Association, in conjunction with the Los Angeles Fire Department, will sponsor a fire department paramedic unit demonstration Sept. 18 at 8 p.m. at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

The demonstration will take place at the homeowners' regular monthly meeting.

Association members feel that it is of the utmost importance for every resident and businessman in the Diamond Bar area to know how this paramedic unit serves the public.

Trained personnel will display their unique skills using department equipment.

The public is invited. Admission is free.

MSAC adult section classes

Tax preparation, insurance, fitness

WALNUT — The adult education section of Mt. San Antonio College will offer a class on the fundamentals of tax preparation for practitioners next month.

The class is designed for those who already are working in tax form preparation or those who are planning to enter the field.

The nine-week class is open to all residents of the district, and will be instructed by an employe of the Internal Rvevenue Service on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. starting Oct. 9.

Two other classes for adults are offered by the college during the fall.

Requested by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, a class in business life insurance will be held on Tuesday afternoons from to to 5, starting Sept. 11. David J. Cathers, a million-dollar-a-year underwriter, will instruct the class for all underwriters and interested community residents.

Individual body conditioning and figure contouring, one of the most popular classes in the women's fitness program, will also be offered in the adult program this fall.

All new students will receive personal evaluations from trained personnel and a program of exercises will be developed for each to meet individual fitness needs. During the semester, women will be able to use the Fitness Studio equipment from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 8 a.m. to noon on Fridays.

Linda Garrison, MSAC physical education instructor and coordinator of the program since its inception last summer, and Phyllis Leslie, Women's fitness instructor, will instruct.

Muscular dystrophy drive

Lewis' career cast aside to aid crippled children

NEW YORK (UPI) —Tucked away in his wallet, Jerry Lewis, the comedian, carries letters from children suffering from muscular dystrophy. Some of the letter writers have died. The others only have hope.

By his own estimate, his once-flourishing career has been practically cast aside in a growing quest to overcome the muscle-destroying disease.

Sunday night, Lewis began his annual 20-hour Labor Day telethon broadcast on some 150 stations over the Hughes Television Network. Packaged and presented by Lewis, the telethon has been the main thrust for the past seven years of the muscular dystrophy fund raising drive.

"Kids should have the right to go on and nothing should interfere with it," Lewis says. "We'll beat this damn thing in the near future."

As national chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America for the past 22 years, Lewis has been the bulwark in an often frustrating campaign to raise money to find a cure for the killer.

Since 1966 the telethon has raised some $28 million but children are still dying and Lewis continues to run, to drive himself, to save the youngsters.

"My wife told me last week that all my fame is just a warmup for this job,' Lewis says, "and maybe she is right."

TODAY'S

Women

Miss Perry is bride of Jerry L. Smith

After a two-week honeymoon in northern California and Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Smith will reside in Upland.

Holtrust photo

MRS. JERRY L. SMITH

The bride is the former Elizabeth Ann Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Perry of Montclair. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Smith of Pomona.

The couple exchanged wedding vows before the Rev. Lee Kirk in Chapel of the Bells in Ontario.

The bride wore a traditional floor-length gown of chantilly lace with long sleeves. Lace edged her full veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Carol Drake was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeannie Perry and Miss Lou Anne Hampton.

Desiree Cook and Melody Cook were flower girls.

William Medina was best man. Ushers were Wayne Willhoft, Robert Smith and Jimmy Perry.

A reception at the home of the bride followed the early evening rites.

Women can enroll in UCLA classes

Women who have been thinking about returning to school full or part-time may enroll in UCLA Extension daytime classes beginning in late September and ending by mid-December.

Upper and lower division courses are offered in art, accounting, anthropology, foreign languages, writing, philosophy, political science, and many more, enabling women to expand their current interests.

When registering, they may indicate whether or not the courses are to be taken for credit and, if for credit, whether for a letter grade or on a pass-not pass basis. Registrants may transfer to another course by the third class meeting. All credit earned can be sent on a transcript from UCLA Extension to another institution.

The fee for most of the classes is $65. All sessions will be held at the University Religious Conference Auditorium adjacent to the UCLA campus.

Further information can be obtained by writing Daytime Programs, P.O. Box 24902, UCLA Extension, Los Angeles, 90024, or by calling (213) 825-4411.

Mailed bricks

VERNAL, Utah (UPI) The Bank of Utah here was built with bricks sent through the mail.

Residents in 1919 collected bricks from other areas and sent them to Vernal, seven bricks to a package, to build their bank. The bricks were sent by mail because parcel post rates at that time were far less than commercial freight rates.

February wedding planned

Miss Binnie Brandt and Biff Green of La Verne will be married on Feb. 2, according to an announcement made by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Brandt of Glendora.

Miss Brandt graduated from Glendora High School in 1969 and in 1973 graduated from La Verne College where she is studying to obtain an elementary teaching credential.

Mr. Green graduated from Pomona High in 1964 and from La Verne College in 1972. He is presently employed by the college where he is advisor for the Model United Nations. He is the son of former Pomona residents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip K. Green of Arcadia.

Methodist Women will meet

The women of the Philadelphia Street United Methodist Church, United Methodist Women, will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the church social hall.

The organization's purpose is to expand the missions concept through participation in the global ministries of the church.

A skit; "Rejoice;" will be featured at the meeting presented by Mrs. William Byers, Mrs. Lowell Kimball, Mrs. Roland Herbert, Mrs. William Tolbert and Mrs. Robert Thomas.

Refreshments will be served.

Nixon aversion to newsmen still evident

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon has never really liked newsmen. At best he has considered them necessary nuisances. With the pressure of the Watergate scandal his usual irritation has approached hostility.

This attitude is not new. Even before his famous 1962 "last press conference" when he let all the bitterness of his defeat for governor of California spill out, he had made it clear he had little confidence in newsmen giving him fair treatment.

But in his news conference a couple of weeks ago, he couned most members of the press and television journalists among the enemies he said "would not accept the mandate of '72" and were trying to exploit the Watergate scandal in order to drive him from office.

"After all, I know that most members of the press corps were not enthusiastic —and I understand that —about either my election in '68 or '72. That is not unusual," he said.

"Frankly, if I had always followed what the press predicted or the polls predicted, I would never have been elected President. And so . . . I impute no improper motives to them. I simply think they would prefer that I fail."

Newsmen, like politicians, are accustomed to being criticized. But even to the most tough-skinned, the President's remarks seemed somewhat harsh.

It is true, probably, that a preference poll of Washington newsmen during the last election would have shown somewhat less enthusiasm for Nixon than the 61 per cent of the vote he pulled.

But to say that most want him to fail after he was elected is something else again and suggests a deep and abiding bitterness.

Nixon's news conference was his first in more than five months and he was taut and nervous during the 50-minute session. Despite a visible effort to control his temper, he showed flashes of anger.

Asked if he thought the Watergate scandal had affected his capacity to govern, he suggested that it was criticism in the media rather than the Watergate itself which was causing his difficulties.

"It is true that, as far as the capacity to govern is concerned, that to be under a constant barrage 12 to 15 minutes a night on each of the three major networks for four months tends to raise some questions in people's minds with regard to the President, and it may raise some questions with regard to the capacity to govern," he said.

When Dan Rather of CBS, a tough and persistent questioner considered by some White House aides and apparently by Nixon himself to be overly critical of the President, prefaced a question by expressing "due respect to your office" Nixon shot back: "That would be unusual."

And at the end of his response, his anger showed through again. "Obviously, you, in your commentary tonight, can attach anything you want to it. I hope you will be just as fair and objective as I tried to be in giving you the answer," he said.

His chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr., no doubt reflecting the President's own thinking, said after the news conference that he thought some of the questions bordered on impropriety even under the circumstances.

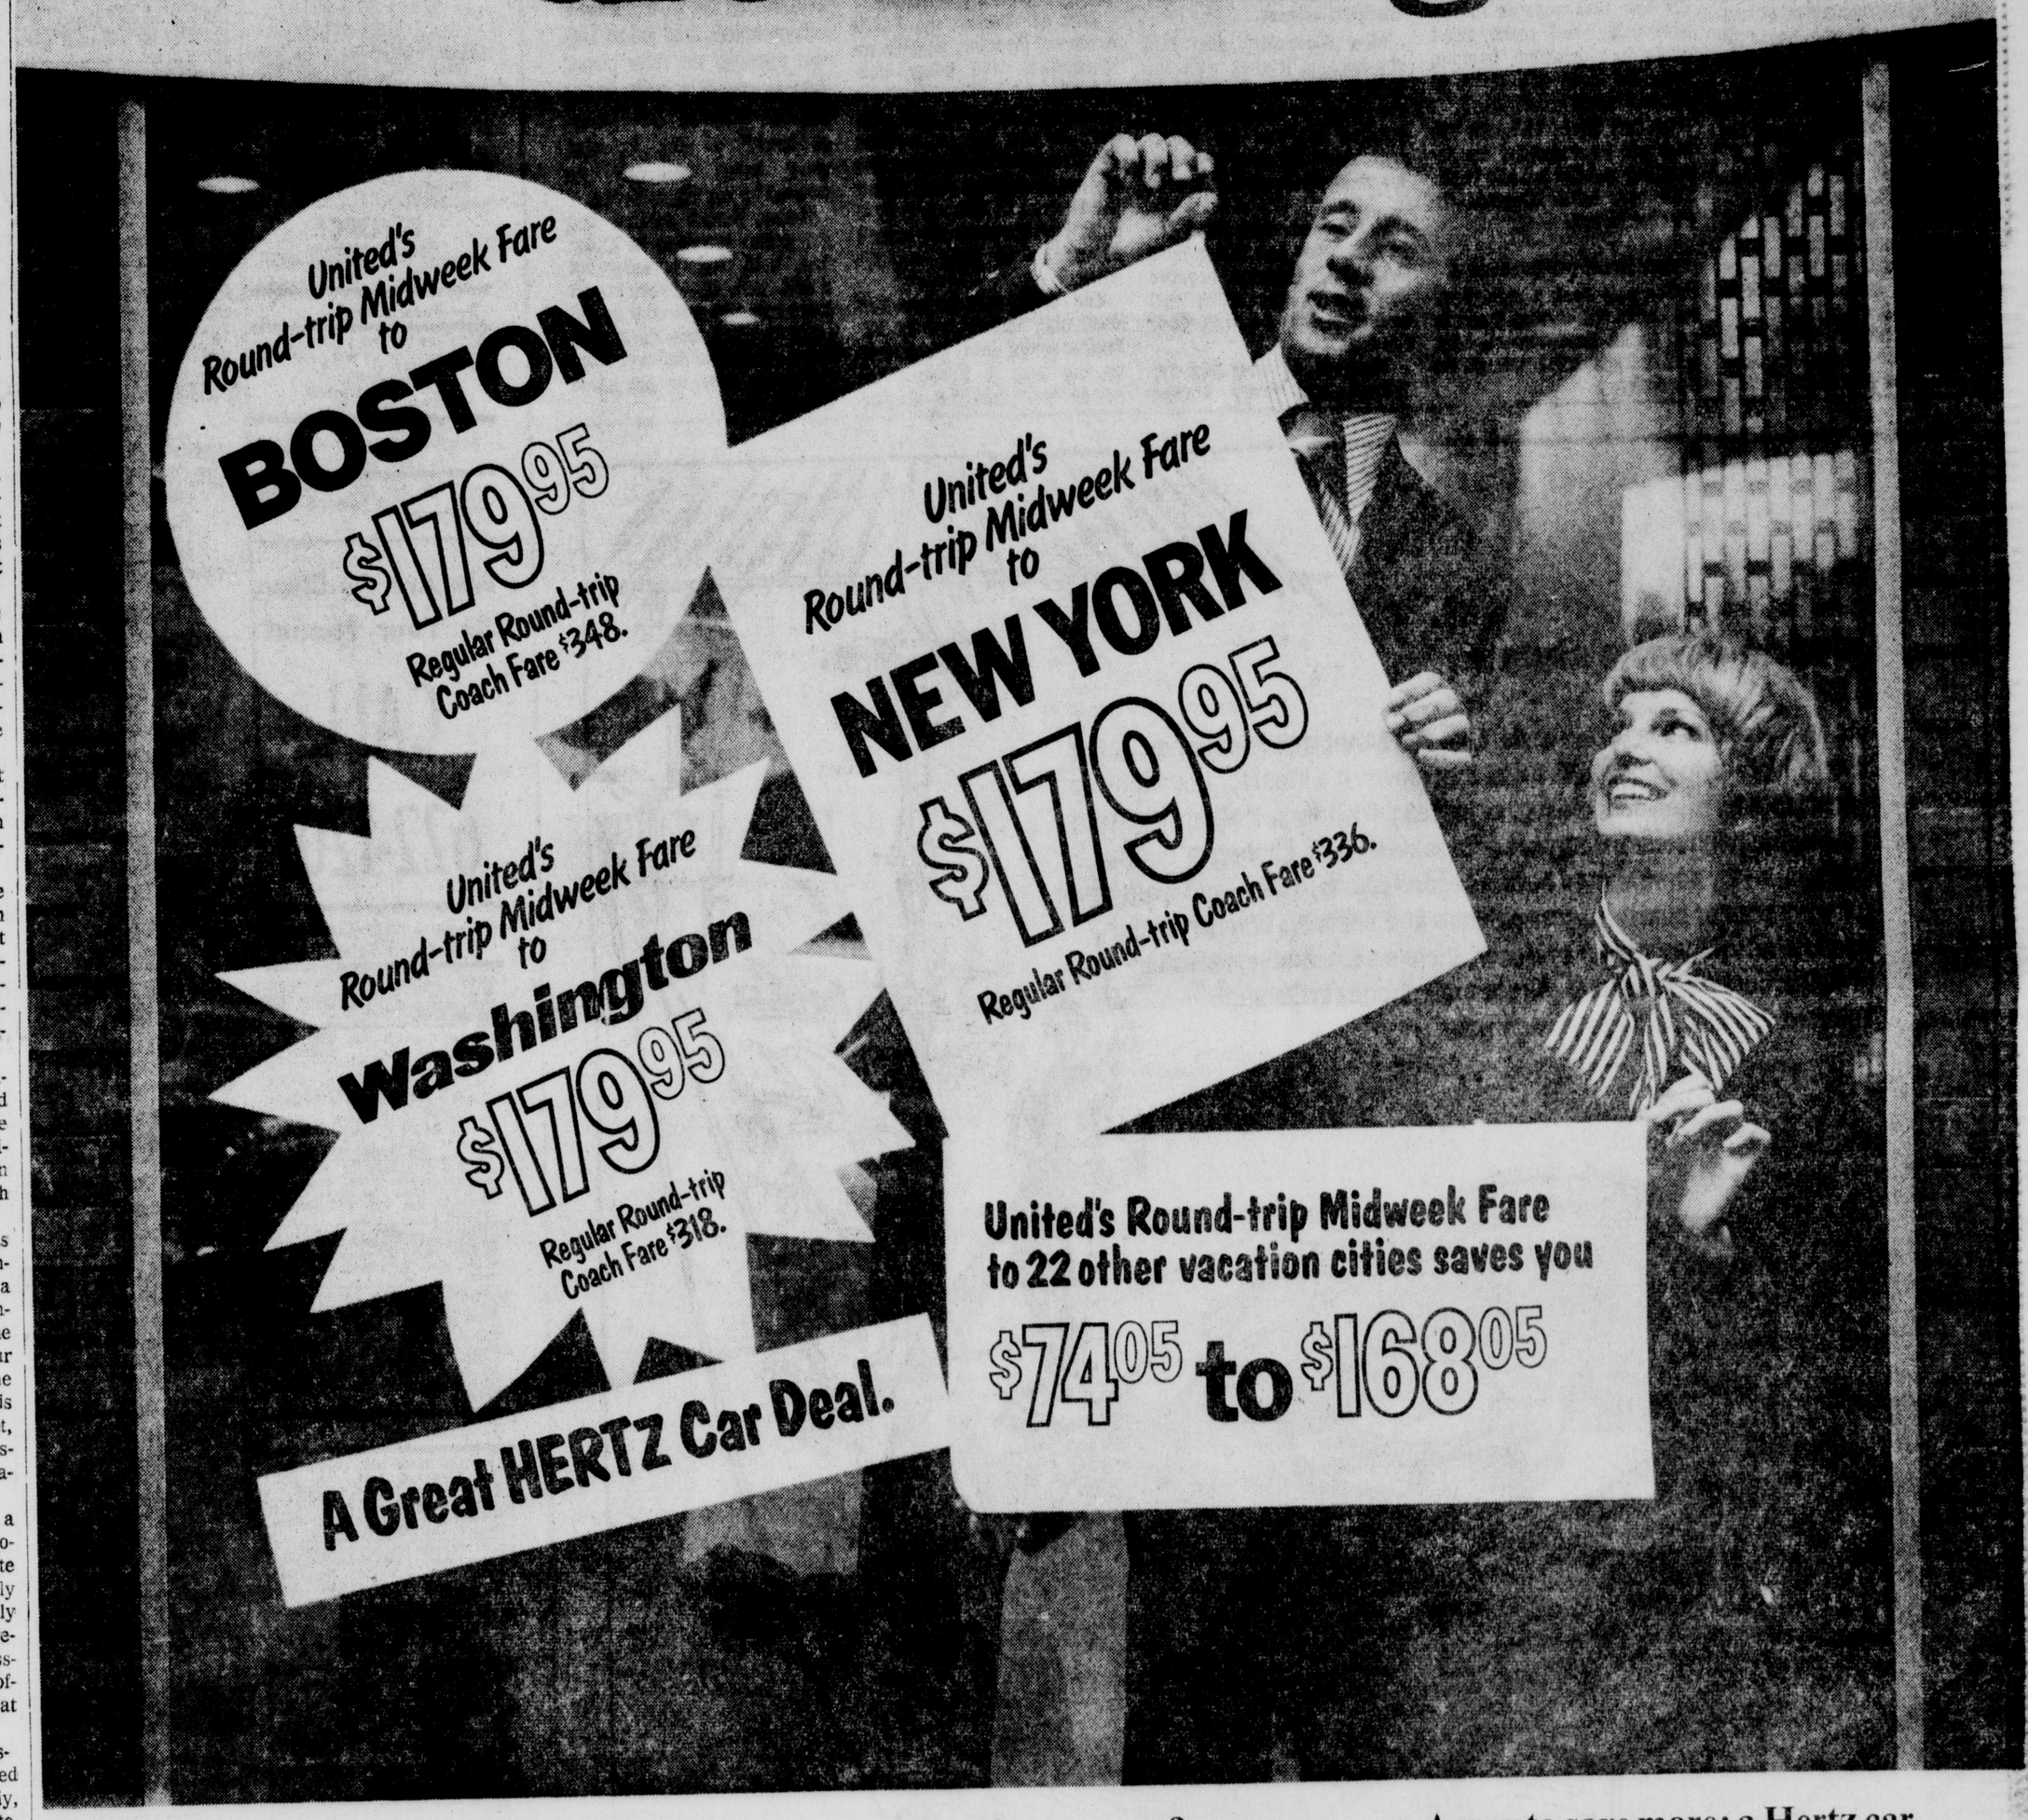

Cynical nerves start quivering when such things happen. It is an ancient tactic to overstate, or misstate, the position of your "enemy" before attacking it.

None of the questions asked of the President had not been rhetorically posed in print before, and none was unexpected.

Some saw the President's responses as a move to transfer the debate over the Watergate scandal to an argument over how fairly he is treated in the media.

Anthropologist says

Mexican women are happy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Anthropologist Mary Lindsay Elmendorf studied the lives of seven Mexican women living in an isolated village and concluded they were generally happy and felt more independent than many American suburban women.

"All of them except the oldest ones seem happy with their husbands in spite of the fact that all except two had married the persons chosen by their father," Miss Elmendorf said. The women, ranging in age from 17 to 65, spend their days cooking and cleaning and caring for children while their husbands work in the fields.

The author presented a paper Sunday on the women at the 9th International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Scienes.

Miss Elmendorf, who said she became friends with the women, studied the seven in the village of Chan Kom, long isolated but due for "modernization" because of a major road to be built through it.

The women told Miss Elmendorf they had easier lives than their husband because they got to stay inside cool houses and to be with their children.

The men, however told the author their wives worked harder. "They have to stay home and cook and wash and be with the children" men said.

"In summary there is much more feeling of independence on the part of these women than I have sensed among suburban women" the author said.

"The important thing is that each (man and woman) feels the other has an important job, a hard job, and in this community in which life is divided in such a way that man and women depend on each other, an independence is tied to subsistence living based on corn culture," the author said.

1 of 4 law grads hired by FCC failed 1st bar exam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About one of every four law graduates hired by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) last year failed his first bar examination, the Bureau of National Affairs (BNA) reported Wednesday.

John M. Torbet, the FCC's executive director, said an investigation was being conducted.

Lawyers hired by the government are not required to go through the civil service system, but must pass either the District of Columbia or a state bar examination within 14 months of their employment.

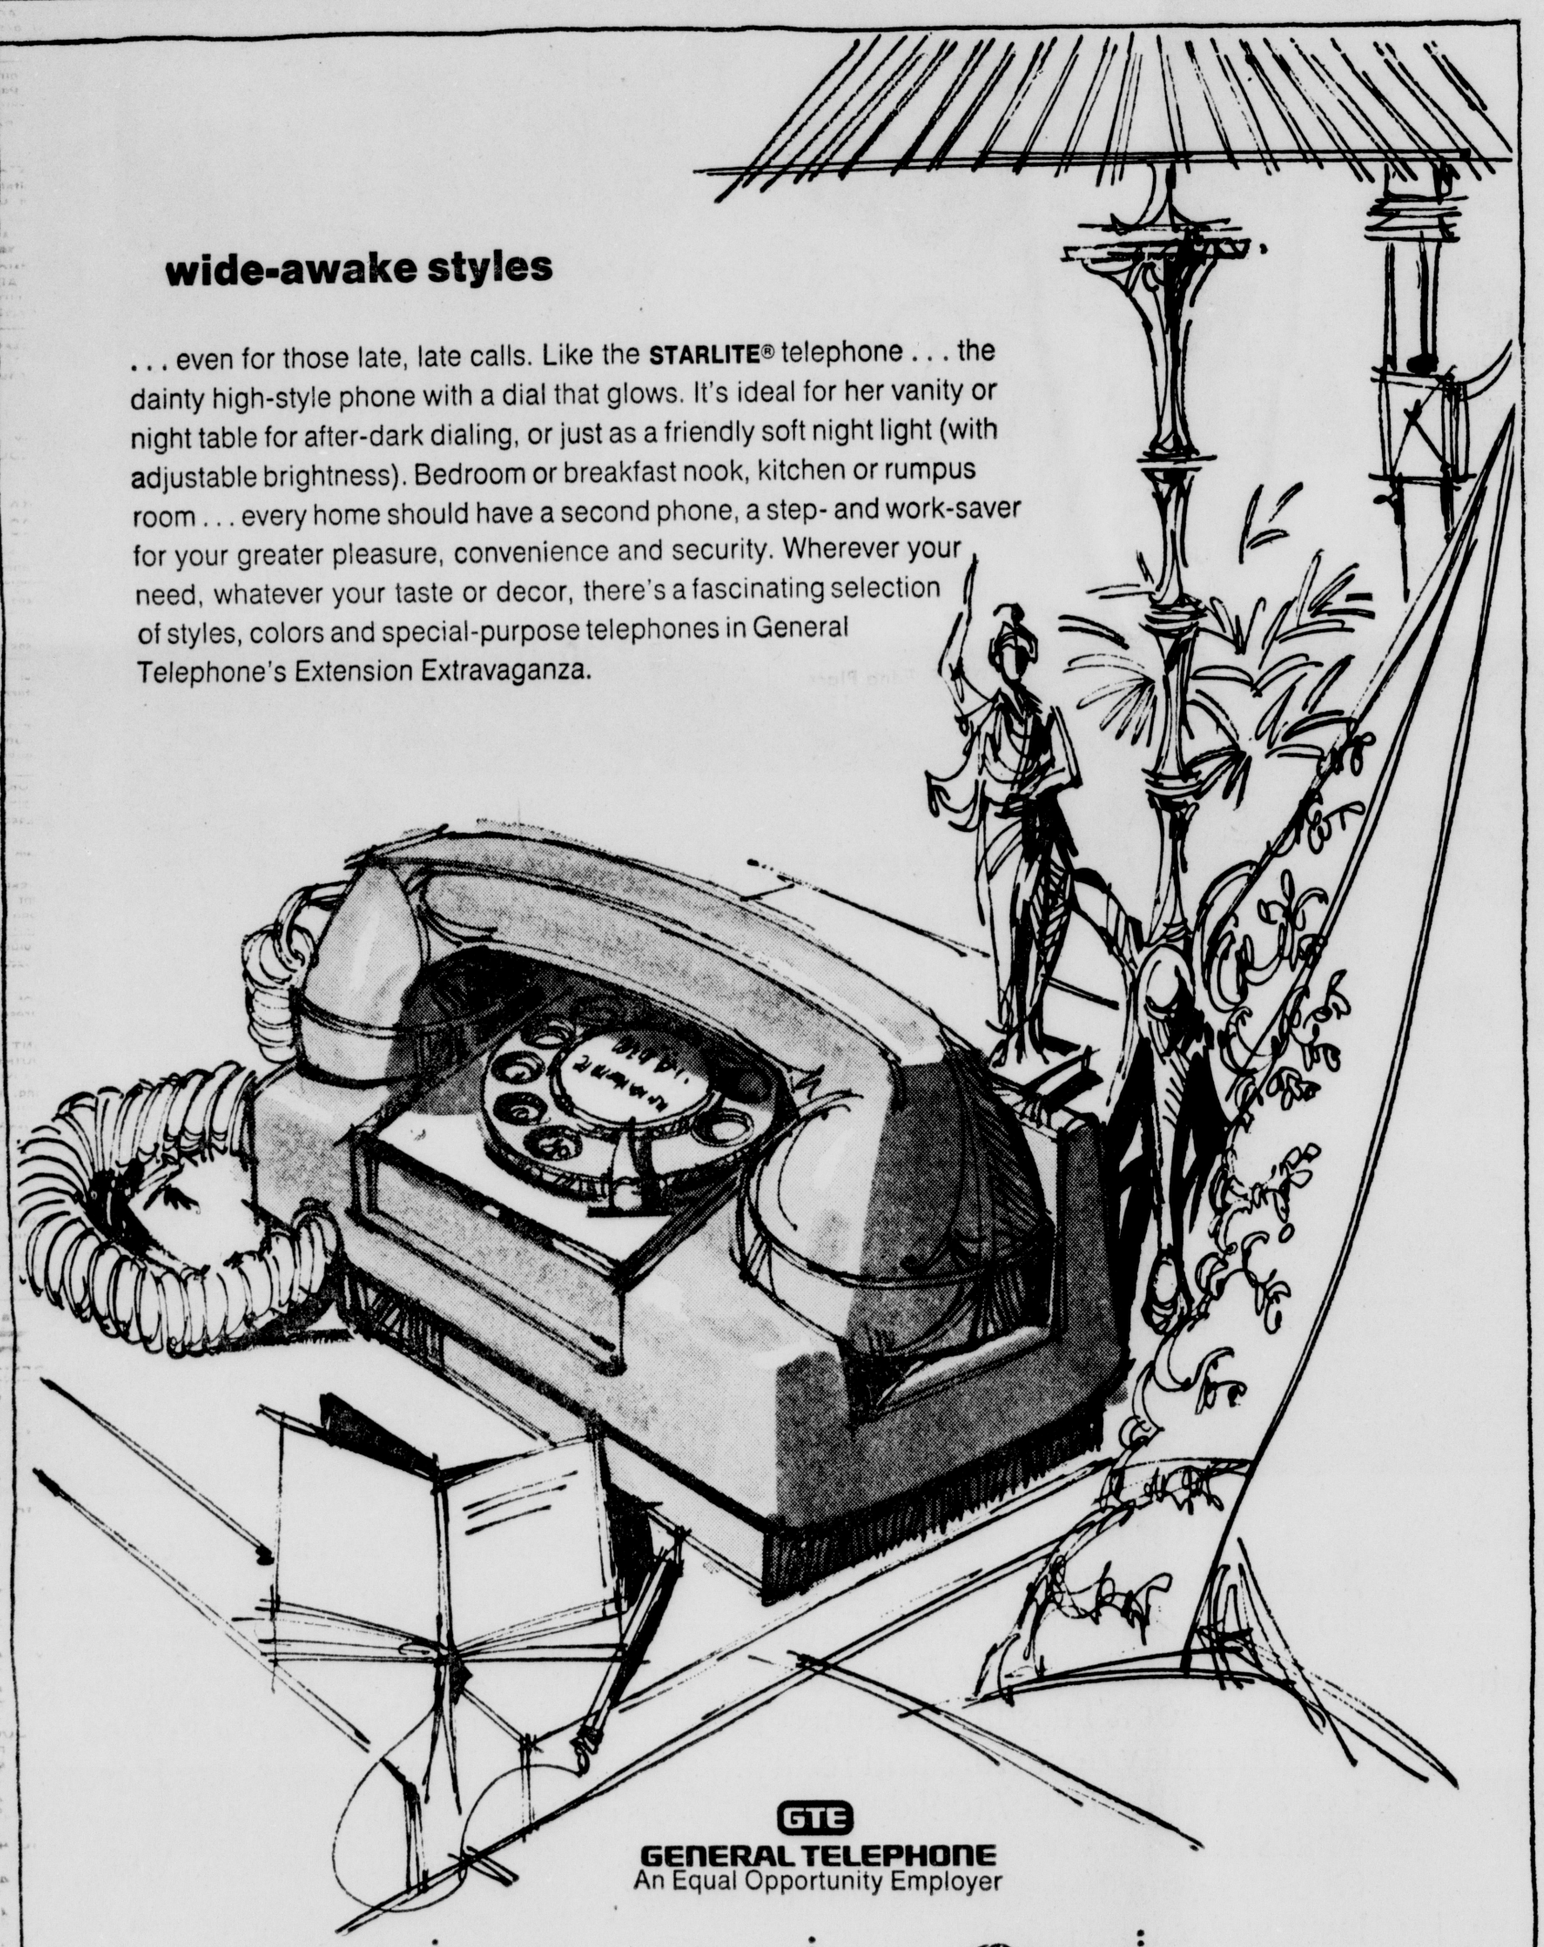

The BNA, which provides legal and financal advise for businessmen, said documents on file with a House Commerce subcommittee showed the FCC was one of the lowest-scoring agencies in the government in terms of law school graduates passing the bar examination.

Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., of the Investigations subcommittee, had asked federal agencies for their hiring data as part of a study to determine whether the "independence" of the agencies was being politcally influnced by the White House.

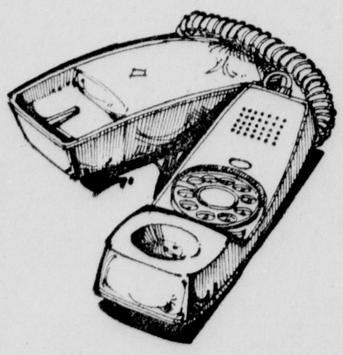

Torbet denied politics was the prime requisite in hiring and said his investigation would seek to determine if there are any patterns to examination failures, such as a large number of failures from the same area or the same law school.
